CHURCH LOBBY LINKED WITH PACIFIST GROUP

Thousands Aid Fight on Federal Council.

ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special—Representative Arthur M. Free (Rep., Cal.), who introduced a resolution in the house for investigation of the lobbying and propagandist activities of the Federal Council of Churches, claiming to represent 22,000,000 Protestants, was deluged today with letters commanding his move and exposing the radical and subversive character of the organization.

REV. S. PARKES CADMAN.

One of the disclosures is a community of interest between the federation of Protestant churches and extreme pacifist and communistic organizations in opposing alien deportation legislation, military training, exclusion of the Japanese and administration policies in dealing with Mexico and Nicaragua and in advocating sedition in time of war.

Propaganda Extensive.

The Federal council, headed by the Rev. S. Parkes Cadman, is composed of 22 Protestant denominations comprising 143,000 churches. It maintains extensive headquarters in New York City and branch offices in Chicago and Washington and operates the most extensive propaganda machinery in the world.

The organization shares with the Anti-Saloon league, with which it co-operates, the distinction of constituting the most powerful influence to which congress and the administration have been subjected. The Federal council is so organized from its executive committee down to the congregation of the village church that it has but to press a button to inundate congress with resolutions, petitions, memorials, letters and telegrams, addressing, appealing for, and demanding the passage or rejection of legislation.

The organization demonstrated its power and the efficacy of its propaganda a few weeks ago when the senate adopted without a dissenting vote the resolution declaring for arbitration of the oil and alien land law controversy with Mexico, which was designed to curb the administration policy represented by Secretary of State Kellogg's threat to withdraw recognition of the Calles government. The deluge of letters and telegrams from constituents which was loosed upon senatorial committees in behalf of this action at the instance of the Federal council was unprecedented.

Anticipated Victory.

Contemplating this victory, the council issued a statement, in which it said:

"We are especially moved to express our appreciation of this procedure because the executive committee of the Federal council on Dec. 9, at its annual meeting in Minneapolis, attended by representatives of the 22 denominations comprising the council, unanimously urged 'that some method of peaceful settlement can and should be found.'

"From overwhelming evidence that has subsequently come to us from church leaders in all parts of the country, we are unmistakably assured that the decision to arbitrate will be greatly welcomed by the churches. In their judgment, the controversy between our government and the government of Mexico presents no justification whatever either for armed intervention or for any military interference in the affairs of that nation. They have taken this position not on the assumption that they are competent to pass on all the technical questions involved, which are recognized as complex and difficult, but rather on the ground that conciliation, arbitration, and judicial procedure offers a perfectly reasonable and practical alternative to coercive measures. Resort to war should no case be considered, except in actual self-defense against actual invasion."

Touches on Nicaragua.

Franklin MacVeagh Injured by Auto

SENATE O. K.'S GUN ELEVATION ON BATTLESHIPS

City Leader Is Run Down at Boulevard

Franklin MacVeagh, 87 years old, secretary of the treasury during the Taft administration and one of Chicago's pioneer merchants, was taken to St. Luke's hospital last night after he had been knocked down by an automobile at Michigan boulevard and Monroe street. Because of his advanced age Mr. MacVeagh's condition was said to be serious.

Mr. MacVeagh had just left his rooms in the University club, where he resides, and was on his way to the Chicago club for dinner. As he stepped into Monroe street to walk south a small automobile rounded the corner and struck him. Witnesses said the driver of the car was apparently not at fault, as Mr. MacVeagh had walked into the path of the vehicle. The driver was released by police after being questioned.

Taken to Hospital.

Police took Mr. MacVeagh to the hospital, where he was attended by internes. Dr. L. M. McArthur was summoned. He found no grave injuries, and both he and Eames MacVeagh, the injured man's son, expressed confidence that there was no immediate danger.

Mr. MacVeagh established the firm of Franklin MacVeagh & Co., wholesale grocers, and remained head of the firm until 1908. He also was interested in manufacturing and banking concerns.

He was secretary of the treasury under President Taft from 1909 to 1913. He has at various times headed such organizations as the Citizens' association, the Chicago Bureau of Charities, the Municipal Art League, and has been an official of the National Civic Federation and the American Civic association.

Pedestrian Dies of Injuries.

Three deaths yesterday raised the county's motor toll for the year to 138.

Mike Stanton, 49 years old, of 2135 Millard street, died of injuries received when he was struck by a truck. Everett Colbert, colored, 1256 South Sangamon street, the truck driver, was arrested by police and charged with assault by an automobile, reckless driving, and driving without a license.

The President still hopes that his plan for another naval armament discussion has not failed because of the refusal of France and Italy to take part. What was said on the subject in his behalf at the White House today is being variously interpreted, but the impression given was that the French and Italian rejections are not considered as shutting the door to further negotiations.

Child of 5 Victim.

Herman Kanofsky, 5 years old, 5442 Harper avenue, died in the Illinois Central hospital from injuries suffered Feb. 9 when he was struck by a motor truck while playing in 54th place near North Sawyer avenue, was driver of the truck.

Benjamin Govier, 11514 Yale avenue, a nephew of Al Sheldon Govier, and William W. Sullivan, 11752 Indiana avenue, were injured early this morning when Govier drove his machine head on into a street car at State and 56th streets. They were taken to Auburn Park hospital, where their injuries were pronounced not serious.

It was indicated that the President was not certain whether it would be feasible to bring about a naval armament limitation with Great Britain and Japan. It might be, according to the White House exposition of the President's attitude, that some progress in limitation could be made through a three power agreement, but he was inclined to think that this was doubtful.

The position of Great Britain in the Washington armament conference five years ago was that unless some arrangement could be made with France for limitation of submarine construction, the British government could not be expected to place any limitation on classes of vessels used for submarine defense.

France Likely to Object.

It was understood that France's disinclination to have a curb placed on the construction of her submarines would be an obstacle to bringing about a limitation agreement.

The suggestion has been advanced, however, that if a naval conference were held with France and Italy not participating, an understanding might be reached between the United States, Great Britain and Japan would consent to keep their submarine strength within certain limits unless and until France or Italy went beyond that strength in submarine construction.

Two Mrs. Prevos.

Alice Prevo got up and moved forward. From the back of the room there was a stir, and a tall young woman rushed forward, shouting:

"That's not the real Mrs. Prevo. I've got the real Mrs. Prevo here. She's my sister."

The tall girl, Miss May Tobin, pushed forward a younger girl, who was sobbing. She flopped into a chair and gave her name as Anna Ziedas of 6158 Langley avenue, an employee of the post office at 59th and Halsted streets.

Coroner Eichenfeld asked her what she knew about the case on hearing, and she said nothing, whereupon she dismissed her.

But Miss Tobin jumped up and yelled, "She does, too, know a lot about this murder. This man there," pointing to Prevo, "attacked her and beat her and choked her, just the way this Wood girl was killed. It has nothing to do with this murder."

They quieted her and requested her to go back to her seat.

powers in several branches of naval construction.
George Leygues, minister of marine, today announced that something must be done to bring the French fleet into somewhere nearer to the standard of other countries. He referred details of his forthcoming proposals, which will be introduced in parliament soon. He made it clear that France was far behind other colonial powers in its means of protecting communications with its overseas possessions.

To Reorganize Air Force.

The new program is expected to provide for sufficient cruisers, destroyers, and submarines to bring the maritime strength up to the needs of its colonial possessions. It also will include reorganization of the naval air force.

It is understood the minister has in view, first of all, the replacement of fast cruisers worn out in world war service with the addition of a few fast destroyers of the latest type, which have been built in France and have shown record speed.

The program, it is believed in parliamentary circles, will be restricted by lack of funds. There is little disposition to increase appropriations either for land or sea armaments for the moment, although the necessity of renewal of a considerable part of the French fleet is recognized by all parties.

To Start on Border Defenses.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, March 1.—Minister of War Paul Painlevé announced today that work will begin on the new French frontier defenses in July.

Following the plans which it has taken the war council two years to draft, the ministry of war is preparing to launch a vast project which will require years to complete and the expenditure of billions of francs. It will entail an entirely new system of frontier defenses taking into account the frontiers fixed by the treaty of Versailles, and the lessons learned in the world war.

The first work is to be in Alsace-Lorraine. Here the only modern defenses, those erected by Germany, will be directed to the enemy from the west, not the east.

"Two plans are considered," Mr. Painlevé said, "one envisaging a continuous line of reinforced concrete trenches from Dunkirk to Belgrade, and the other providing for series of powerfully fortified regions connected with an elaborate system of railways."

Start for Asuncion Today.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, March 1.—The American good will flyers postponed their hop to Asuncion until tomorrow in order to attend the funeral today of Capt. Arthur G. Custer, chief of the Argentine naval air service. He died suddenly yesterday after officiating as pall bearer at the funeral services for Capt. Clinton F. Woolsey and Lieut. John W. Benton, the American flyers who were killed on their arrival here.

BIG BILL LAMS BRENNAN AS WAR TO FINISH OPENS

And George Loads Up His Flame Throwers.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Chicago's mayoralty campaign became more sulphurous than ever last night. George E. Brennan, manager of Mayor Dever's campaign, and William Hale Thompson saluted into each other hammer and tongs, while blue flames flickered at headquarters as the brass-stone was shoved in. In brief, the highlights were:

Big Bill's remarks about "left-handed Irish who are a disgrace," served to make the Democrats fighting mad, so the Democratic ward committeemen reported to Brennan at a closed session at the Hotel Sherman. George laid down the law, and in substance told the lads to sally forth for a knock down and drag out fight.

Mr. Thompson put forth an open letter to "Boss" Brennan and Mayor Dever. He accused Brennan of being a representative of King George of England, and told Brennan and Dever to "get a good big stack of blue chips."

The old County Democracy, so-called, once the Harrison wing, called a meeting for Friday to endorse Thompson for mayor.

Independent Republicans began a formation of a Dever organization with a battery of speakers and a slogan, "Dever and Decency."

Thompson Gees South.

Mr. Thompson shot his open letter just before he hopped a train for Dover Hall, Ga. U. J. "Sport" Herrmann's shooting lodge, for a week's training for the platform fight. It was a long epistle as political missiles go. In the course of it, Big Bill, still twanging the "left-handed Irish" string, replied to Brennan's charge that "not all supporters of Thompson are hoodlums, but every hoodlum is supporting Thompson."

Big Bill said that if the women voters will only gaze upon the pictures of Brennan and Thompson they will vote "that left-handed George carries all the earmarks of the leader of the hoodlums."

No a Beauty Contest.
Mr. Brennan's answer for the night will brief.

"Big Bill," he said, "is trying to make this a beauty contest between him and me. I admit I'm not handsome enough to sit for company. He is."

George said he would have an exultant reply to "Sport" Herrmann's letter today. From a sketch he gave of some of the points he expects to review, it is likely to lift the campaign several degrees higher above the boiling point, which was passed as the week opened.

In volume of output, the Thompson

OPERATION ON HER BOW LEGS CRIPPLES; JURY AWARDS $25,000

Los Angeles, March 1.—(P)—Miss Helen R. Goldman, who underwent an operation to have her bowlegs straightened when short skirts came in style, was awarded $25,000 damages by a jury today in a suit against the surgeons, whom she charged with negligence.

The operation resulted in blood poisoning and subsequent amputation of one leg below the knee.

Miss Goldman sued the surgeons, John Dunley and T. M. Hart, for $100,000 damages. The defendants denied the charges, declaring the operation and treatment were according to the best medical practice, and that the operation was performed only because Miss Goldman was so sensitive about her bowlegs that she threatened suicide.

Four women were on the jury which made the award.

left you or your company without any liability and a lot of the taxpayers' money in your pocket because you are the best?

"When I was a small boy I used to save my pennies until I got fifteen cents, which permitted me to sit in the gallery of the Academy of Music on Halsted street to see a burlesque show. At one of these shows I heard an actor giving an explanation of how a thief could avoid the police when being pursued. It was an adage: 'You are apprehended while stealing something and the police and a crowd are chasing you crying "Stop, thief!" run as fast as you can for Halsted street, and when you arrive there keep on running but begin yelling "Stop, thief!" yourself; then everybody will run and you will get lost in the crowd and by this method escape.'

"Are you practicing now that actor's recommendation when you charge that your support comes from the crooks and hoodlums?

Drive Out Crooks.

Left-handed George, you know and the people of Chicago know that, with Charles C. Fitzmarris as superintendent of police, I drove the crooks out of Chicago in ninety days, and it is you and Mayor Dever who are responsible for their return, and nobody else.

"I have been telling, Left-handed George, that they held up the Elmer Hotel, took his innings today, and headquarters has laid in a supply of asbestos note paper.

Big Bill's Letter.

"I note with interest," the Thompson letter said, "that during my absence you have said, 'We are giving no quarter and expect no quarter.'

"I want to ask this question on my departure for a little rest, and I would like to have you manufacture your best answer and tell it to the boys before I return, within a week:

"It is not a fact that the insurance company that you represent charged the taxpayers of Cook county $150,000 premium for the former county treasurer's bond, which any insurance company would have written for $50,000; and did you not receive payment in the usual form, by a voucher which you would have had to endorse, but insisted on being handed the cash of the taxpayers over the counter; and did you not receive $24,000 in commission for writing this policy, for which you charged 100 per cent more than the other reputable companies would have charged?

SLOW CLUB TO QUENCH FLAMING YOUTH FORMED

Live Too Fast, Assert Young Folks.

(Picture on back page.) Had flaming youth in Chicago cast its composite eye in the direction of 5121 Cottage Grove avenue last night, must have beheld a warning sign no larger than a man's hand on the horizon. For in the house represented by that street number some 200 young persons gathered to initiate the counter revolution against the uncontrolled emotions of the younger set.

Before the activities of this counter revolution are described it may be best to set before the world its keynote. Here it is, stated succinctly by Miss Annabelle Martin, 19 years old, of 1411 Fifty-third street:

"I am simply tired of going out with men who expect a good-night kiss. So many of my girl friends say the same thing. It ought to be possible to have a good time without being expected to pay for it with caresses."

Of Jacobin Purpose.

Upon that platform the Slow Club of Chicago was got under way last night. It is, in a fashion, the Jacobin club of the anti-flaming youth counter-revolution. Just as the Breton members of the French national assembly gathered in the old Dominican monastery in Paris to lend their voices to the revolution of 1789, later to become the Jacobin club, and still later to become mother to thousands of such forms of free speech and antagonism to hated forms, just so, it is hoped, the Slow club formed last night may thrive as the parent of myriad social groups opposed in principle to the pasting shells of the amorous lounge lizard and carefree young maidenhood. The meeting was called by Miss Otto Potter, an artist model. Miss Potter is 17 years old and is, by way of becoming the modern Robespierre, the Danton or Marat of this revolution against the overdeveloped senses. Except, of course, save in the respect that she hopes to elude the guillotine that abbreviated the careers of the first two and the dagger of some spiteful Charlotte Corday which slew the last.

Higher Plane of Contact.

The general disposition for a higher plane of contact between the sexes was generously applauded. Wild parades in which hip liquor and the remorse consequent upon its use are outstanding modern factors were relegated out of time with the movement. And it is hoped that converts will be won by moral magnetism rather than exhaustive discussion.

Miss Potter was acclaimed temporary chairman until the new members have an opportunity to become acquainted. She will be assisted by John Sullivan of 5123 Calumet avenue, who is serving as secretary.

Now the new club will meet again to elect officers and make plans for extension of the movement. Every one between the ages of 16 and 21 is invited to attend. The only condition is that they must agree not to drink or eat.

"I believe that a movement of this sort fills a real need in Chicago," Miss Potter said. "If organized right it should be as much of a success here as elsewhere. Boys and girls will be able to find in the club an opportunity for fun-sure without making tools of themselves."

She's Tired of Goodnight Kiss.

Miss McClure is a striking blonde who would not have to join a club to find male companionship, other members agreed.

"I'm simply tired of going out with men who expect a goodnight kiss," Miss McClure said. "So many of my girl friends say the same thing. We've decided to stop cheapening ourselves."

"So when I read that they were organizing a Slow club where I could go and have a good time without being obliged to pay for it in caresses, I decided that it was the place for me. I came alone tonight, but next week I'll bring my roommate."

Among the activities to be taken up by the Slow club are dramatics and debate. Dancing will be a feature of the meetings, but the Black Bottom will be barred. Smoking will be left to individual opinion.

TEN COMMANDMENTS FOR COLLEGE MEN GIVEN BY OTTO KAHN

Princeton, N. J., March 1.—[United News.]—Otto H. Kahn, New York financier and patron of the arts, advised college men to become bankers and gave them ten "commandments" for success in life in an interview here.

As published in the Daily Princetonian, the university student newspaper, the commandments were:

1. Eliminate from your vocabulary the word "perfunctory."

2. Think! Exercise your brain as you would your muscles.

3. The most serviceable of all assets is reputation.

4. Use your imagination.

5. Know how to hide your time and thoughts.

6. Be neighborly. Be a good sport. Remember that you can't lift yourself by pulling others up.

7. Work hard; it won't hurt you.

8. Take an active interest in public affairs.

9. Meet your fellow men frankly and fairly. You don't have to go through business armed to the teeth.

SIX CONDEMNED FELONS GRANTED ONE WEEK'S STAY

Six Joliet penitentiary convicts, sentenced to hang on March 4 for the murder of James E. Kilday, yesterday obtained a delay of a week.

Their attorneys went before Judge Frederick Hill at Joliet and pleaded that they had not had sufficient time to prepare an abstract of the evidence, which is to be presented to the Supreme court with a plea for a writ of supersedeas and a review of the case.

The judge then set March 11 as the date for the hanging.

Lorimer Brandon, 22 years old, a student at the University of Illinois college of medicine, died from an overdose of sleeping potion self-administered while he was in a highly nervous mental condition, according to the verdict of a coroner's jury yesterday. Brandon died Monday at Herminot hospital, where he was taken when his wife, Maud, was unable to arouse him from sleep.

Paris a City Sans Time; Official Clocks Stop

(Copyright: 1927, By The New York Times.)

PARIS, March 1.—Paris is today a city without the time—that is, without official time. Official clocks on the boulevards and principal street corners which, for forty years, have told the correct time, stopped without warning last midnight. The situation results from the fact that the city's contract, made in 1887, with a compressed air clock company, expired on the 1st of February, before plans for replacing the clocks were completed. Paris' new electric clock system will not be ready for two weeks.

DAUGHERTY JURY IS DEADLOCKED AFTER 9 1/2 HOURS

May Have Reached Verdict in Miller's Case.

New York, March 1.—[Special.]—Unable to reach a verdict after nine and one-half hours' deliberation the jury in the second conspiracy trial of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty and former Alien Property Custodian Thomas W. Miller was locked up for the night at 11:40 p. m. At that time it was believed the jurors had reached a verdict in regard to Miller, but were deadlocked on Daugherty.

Asks for Instructions.

Just after 11 o'clock the jury had been brought into the courtroom to receive certain instructions which had been requested in a note sent to Federal Judge John C. Knox.

These questions all pertained to the opinion that the jury probably had made up its mind in regard to Miller.

Before the case was given to the jury District Attorney J. H. Buckner concluded his summing up.

"Miller is convicted," Mr. Buckner declared. "I don't think you will take more than fifteen minutes to decide on him. I do not care what is done in the case of Daugherty; you can't keep from convincing Miller. If you don't convict Miller, you will be saving to District Attorney J. H. Buckner run along and prosecute your pickpockets and never mind the men high up."

Charged with Conspiracy.

Mr. Daugherty and Mr. Miller were indicted on a charge of having defrauded the government of their unprejudiced services and judgment in connection with the granting of a $7,000,000 claim against the alien property custodian, then Mr. Miller. The $7,000,000 represented the proceeds of the sale of assets of the American Metal company, seized as enemy owned during the war.

Richard Merton, a German banker, presented evidence on behalf of the Société Suisse pour Valeurs de Matériaux, a neutral organization, to which the German owners of the stock were said to have transferred their interest in it orally just a few days before.

Merton testified that he had paid to the late John T. King, former Republican national committeeman from Connecticut, $50,000 in cash and $31,000 in Liberty bonds to get the claim dropped.

Mr. Miller, his wife, who has been in court every day of the trial, and Mr. Daugherty seemed cheerful to night while waiting for the verdict.

Canada Asked to Spend 3 Million More for Defense

OTTAWA, Ont., March 1.—(UPI)—For the first time since the war the Canadian parliament will be asked to increase its expenditures for defense. The estimate for the fiscal year 1927-28 is $16,000,000, or more than $3,000,000 above last year's. Military services, cadet services, the naval service and the royal Canadian air force will all receive more money this year if the estimates are adopted.

Defense of Shanghai Breaks; Shantung Troops Fill Gap

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, March 2.—(Wednesday.)—(P)—Defense of this city, rich military prize, against the Cantonese was left today entirely in the hands of the Shantungese by the complete withdrawal of Marshal Sun Chuan-fang's forces from Sungkien and the Shanghai area. Sun's withdrawal followed the defection of one of his leading generals. Shantungese troops are being rushed to Sungkien to fill the gap and hold back the Cantonese, who threaten capture of Shanghai.

The messages, one from Eugene Chen, foreign minister of the Cantonese government, and the other from Wellington Koo, foreign minister of the Peking government, were made public today by Chairman Porter of the house foreign affairs committee.

SHANGHAI DEFENDERS SPLIT

BY JOHN POWELL.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

SHANGHAI, March 1.—The forces of Gen. Sun Chuan-fang, present Shanghai chief, and Gen. Chang Chung-chang, governor of Shanghai, are at odds, according to reports to-night from the battle front near Sungkien.

One of Sun's subordinate commanders, Gen. Meng Chao-yueh, who was leading 10,000 troops in the front line, deserted with his entire staff, leaving the troops without leaders. Gen. Meng was recently defeated by the Cantonese in Chekiang province.

What the result of Gen. Meng's defection may be is not known to-night, but it is causing uneasiness, owing to the possibility of a conflict between different factions of the northern forces defending Shanghai.

Gen. Chang Chung-chang, who now is co-operating in the defense of Shanghai, dispatched 2,000 troops to the front line, and the northern forces precipitated by rumors of the defection of Gen. Sun's troops, who were reported to be dissatisfied with the decision to bring the Fengtien troops into what Gen. Sun's men term "their fight."

Report We Joins Cantonese.

The two northern generals, Sun and Chang Chung-chang, who arrived at Shanghai yesterday and inspected the military lines about the Shanghai district, hurried to Nanking to-morrow in order to meet Gen. Chu Yu-pu, Tuan-pao of Chihli province, who was dispatched to the south upon instructions from Gen. Chiang Tsao-lin, boss of Peking.

Gen. Meng, former leader of the Cantonese, is reported to be entering into an alliance with the Cantonese. Nationalist leaders in Shanghai today claimed that the forces under Marshal Wu Pei-fu, stationed in Honan province, have practically made an alliance with the Cantonese against the Mukden war lord.

Four Chinese regiments from Tsingtao, on the Shantung coast, were reported to be marching Shanghai to-night, additional northern reinforcements for the Shanghai districts. Train loads of Shantung troops continue to pour into Shanghai from Nanking, together with carloads of artillery and mountain guns turned out in a Mukden arsenal.

Gen. Pi Shou-ts'en, a subordinate of Gen. Chang Chung-chang, discovered an alleged Cantonese spy in a railroad station and issued immediate orders for his decapitation on the station platform, which were carried out.

CHIANG MAY FORM OWN GOVERNMENT

The radical element of the Cantonese have launched a determined campaign for the removal of the moderates who are now in control of South China. Under the direction of the Russian adviser, M. Borodin, the radicals called an hour's strike at Hongkong, during which the electric lights, telephones, water works, and all other utilities were shut down and the business houses closed. In numerous instances foreigners were dropped from rickshaws, while all the house servants left to continue their work.

LE JEUNE DENIES MARINES KILLED IN NICARAGUA

U. S. Aviators to Attack Rebel Forces.

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special.]—The state department, tonight denied the statement that it was "hiding the facts" that American marines had been killed and wounded in Nicaragua, as alleged in a New York newspaper.

The denial, given orally after the matter had been put squarely up to officials, was that any report that any American marines had been killed or wounded in Nicaragua was without basis in fact, so far as the state department knew.

Maj. Gen. Le Jeune, commandant of the marine corps, when asked concerning the report, denied that the killing or wounding of American marines in Nicaragua had been reported to marine corps headquarters.

"It is all news to me," he said.

CORINTH, Nicaragua, March 1.—The first complete United States aviation organization to be sent on an expedition service landed at Corinth from the mother ship McEvilley and Altair and was dispatched to Managua today, where headquarters and flying field will be established. Every box car and flat car owned by the Nicaraguan railroad was used in transporting the air force, which is in command of Maj. Gen. E. Rowell and includes 100 men.

While the Air's band played at the dock the marines worked around the clock, establishing a record speed for freighting. Rear Admiral Julian Latimer personally inspected the work most of the time. The scenes of activity brought wonderment to the eyes of the natives.

Six De Havilland observation planes and ground attack and fighter planes, as well as a complete field machine shop, photographic laboratory, and high frequency radio sets for use by the aircraft were first packed and loaded.

Then came thirty-two machine guns and 400,000 rounds of ammunition, and 400 drums of gasoline for the De Havillands. This was followed by a caterpillar tractor and 800 bombs. The radio telephone and other field

Mexican Rebels Seize Town; Capital Hears Battle Shots

BY JOHN CORNIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, March 1.—Rebels this morning entered Rosario, a factory town in the foothills overlooking the valley of Mexico, fifteen miles from here. For two hours the sound of firing was distinctly heard from here. The rebels looted the town, carrying off horses, provisions and arms.

While one body of revolutionists occupied Santa Rosa, another held strategic positions along the highway between there and Coatzena, a populous town in the foothills. The few soldiers and police of Santa Rosa surrendered to the rebels. A hurried call brought troops and armed police from San Angel, a suburb of Mexico City, and other points.

Latest reports said the rebels still were holding Santa Rosa. Troops sent to retake the town had not returned or sent back any messages. Telegraph wires from Santa Rosa are cut.

Threaten Shooting at Sight.

It is reported that wire communication also has been cut between here and Colima, capital of the west coast state of the same name. It is said rebels from the state of Jalisco are responsible for the wire cuttings.

At Tototlán, Zacatecas, yesterday federal forces fought rebels under Felipe Sanchez, guerrilla leader, and five other local rebel leaders who had united their forces. It is reported seven rebels were killed in the battle, which lasted several hours.

Refusal of the state department to make the notes public marks, it is said, the development of a new policy of silence in connection with this government's correspondence with Mexico. To much publicity, some of which has reacted unfavorably to the settlement of the land and oil disputes between the two governments, it is said to have prompted the new move.

Ignores Borah, Claim.

Officials, however, let it be known that the latest note did not touch on the plan of the controversy over the application of the oil laws to the land and oil leases. It was also stated that the recent activities of Senator Borah (Rep., Idaho), in his speech for the facts in the present oil controversy are not mentioned.

The Mexican embassy said tonight that Mr. Telles had left for the bedside of a sick brother, but decided to return after receiving advice that his brother's condition had improved.

In some quarters there is a tendency to connect the dispatch of the new note to Mexico with the ambassador's decision to return.

Mexicans in Other Quarters

It is reported that the state department is taking no notice of the proposal of President Diaz for a new treaty with the United States virtually creating an American protectorate over the little Central American country.

It is known that Senator Borah's action in going direct to President Calles for Mexican data on the enforcement of the oil laws, has not met with the approval of administration officials, there was no indication that the state department intended to take any action in the matter.

Mystery continues to surround the reason for the sudden departure of Manuel Telles, the Mexican ambassador, for Mexico City and his unexplained decision to return to Washington.

trucks were also placed on the cars. Admiral Latimer intimated that within 25 hours after their arrival at Managua the De Havillands would be in the air photographing the entire war zone and patrolling the protected territory. Three planes are rigged for ground strafing, with machine guns. All the air operations will be handled from Managua.

One hundred marines commanded by Maj. Gen. Messersmith went to Granada yesterday.

With 200 marines from the Melville and Altair, the actual strength ashore is 1,436 on the west coast and 450 men on the east coast, of which 250 are sailors. Brig. Gen. Logan Peiland, with 1,800 marines, aboard the transport Henderson, is expected Sunday.

Expands "Something Definite."

While Admiral Latimer is reticent, he intimated that he is expecting "something definite within a week" following the arrival of the reinforcements from the United States. Most of the Americans and foreigners are being protected at the present time, but communications between Managua and there are most difficult, and this has raised the cry from the British, who have large interests there.

CHICAGO PAINTED BLACK IN ATTACK ON REDISTRICTING

Crime, Corrupt Elections
Cited in Speech.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—[Special]—The house members of the state terminable permit commission failed to attend the session called for 5 o'clock this afternoon, and the issuance of its report probably will be held up for another week. The seven senators and Lie. Gov. Swift were at the meeting yesterday, and the representative sent word that the word of no senator. It is said that house members desire that the report be withheld until after the mayoralty election in Chicago.

Springfield, Ill., March 1.—[Special]—The alleged arrogance of Chicago, its fiscal misdeeds, its tax dodging, political influence and charges of its use to prop up its unrepresentative representation in the general assembly were the high spots in an all-day debate on the Dickey plan for preparing a new senatorial machine for Illinois.

The senators omitted a night session only because of the governor's recess and will meet at 9 o'clock to-mor row morning to resume the debate.

With four senators absent today the opponents of the Dickey plan claimed they would have won on a roll call, but the debate was adjourned. Senator Swift announced, because of the absentees, the opponents of the plan apparently plan to prevent a vote this week by filibustering.

Downstater's Argument.

The most complete and plainly prepared opposition argument was delivered by Senator Hicks of Rockford.

"This resolution, if passed, means the decapitating the political head of five senators and fifteen representatives, all downstate," Senator Hicks said. "Who will volunteer to lay his head on the block?"

Then he argued that the use of the word "shall" in the constitution requiring the legislature to redistrict the state every ten years really means "may," but he had reason for this claim by asserting that it would not violate his oath of office, but would vote for a reapportionment, if it appealed to him as fair and equitable. He said he will be hard to please.

Cites Chicago's Alibis.

The Rockford statesman cited the 1920 census to substantiate a claim that there are 484,000 aliens in Chi-

ago. "What three downstate senators desire to give up their seats that three new senators may be selected in Chicago to represent these 484,000

aliens?" he went on. "Another fac-

Senator Hicks went on to argue that Cook county is dodging taxes on much more property than the rest of the state. As evidence for this claim he cited the greatest joke book of the state tax commission. He showed tax evasion of various classes of property. He said that Cook county has about 400,000 automobiles but that only 18,178 pay a personal property tax. He said that the board of review in nineteen downstate counties raised valuations in one year by $12,700,000, while in the same year the Cook county board of review wrote off $32,900,000.

"But that is not all," Senator Hicks concluded. "Chicago has made an open sewer of the Illinois river, the stench from which offends the nostrils of any one who goes near it."

100,000 SIGNERS ASK HOME RULE VOTE ON APRIL 5

Expect 300,000 Names
on Petitions by Saturday

Voters at the April election will have the power to vest in Chicago officials the right to dictate the rates and rules of the transportation, telephone, gas and electricity companies. The voters may take those duties from the Illinois commerce commission at Springfield.

It will be Chicago's opportunity to judge whether home rule over the utility companies is in the best interest of the city.

More than 100,000 names have been collected by the Democratic organization managers to the petition which will put the home rule referendum on the ballot. Nearly 200,000 names are required by state law, and it was announced last night by Ald. Jacob N. Arvey, leading the home rule campaign, that 300,000 signatures would be collected before the petition is filed with proper ceremony, on next Saturday morning.

To Movie Audiences.

Tonight the petitions will be circulated in three hundred moving picture theaters in the city. Ald. Arvey, speaking over the radio last night, urged that all patriotic citizens join in what he termed the fight for independence from downstate.

Under the state law regulating public utilities, by which the Illinois commerce commission was formed, it is provided that any city desiring to throw off the rule of the commission, and set up one of its own choosing, may do so by agreement of the voters at a mayoralty election.

"There can be no doubt," Ald. Arvey said, "that Chicago is united behind the movement for the city, should the right to determine whether utilities which do business with every citizen shall be controlled by the city.

Stark Votes Today on Judicial Delegates.

Knox County Republicans enrolled as a unit today for the defense of the judiciary against political assault.

The county convention selected its thirteen delegates to the Fifth Supreme court district convention and instructed them to "cast their solid vote" for Justice Clyde E. So sweeping was the victory here that one state employee who informed the majority that the Small forces are said to have shifted their plans so that their aim henceforth will be to dead-lock the district convention with the aim of throwing their strength to any candidate they think can beat Justice Stone.

Bailey Predicts Deadlock.

The deadlock scheme is said to have been agreed upon by a prediction that effect by H. U. Bailey of Princeton, Bureau county. Small's director of trade and commerce. Bailey is quoted here as forecasting a deadlock with a compromise probably on Circuit Judge Joe A. Davis of his home town.

This he did in spite of the fact that when the Bureau county convention on Feb. 21 gave a three way endorsement to Circuit Judge Edgar Eldridge, Judge Davis, and Senator Robert S. Peoria, in that order, Judge Davis promptly announced he was not a candidate.

There will be a total of ninety-seven votes in the convention at Peoria on March 15. Peoria county has instructed its twenty-five delegates for Justice Stone. The action by Knox today makes his total thirty-eight. Similar action by La Salle county, with twenty-one votes, or by Henry county, which will have thirteen, would give Justice Stone votes to spare above the majority of forty-nine required to nominate.

Seek La Salle, Henry Votes.

Therefore the most important part of the Small deadlock scheme is to wrest enough votes from Justice Stone to the up the convention by use of a contest against the regular Peoria delegation.

Since the Peoria convention, when only forty-eight votes out of a total of one hundred and twelve, the governor's workers have been advertising that a total of sixty-five out of that total left the convention hall and participated in a demonstration at its doors which pretended to select a second set of delegates.

While that rump session was going on a Small delegation challenged the presence of a quorum at the regular meeting. The delegates still in their seats arose to be counted. The official count showed sixty-five, and this was verified by newspaper men and others present.

In spite of this record, the Small plan is to contest the right of the regular Peoria delegates to seats if a total of thirty-seven delegates can be mustered to vote for the scheme. If a contest is brought, the Peoria delegates would be barred from voting on their own case, and thirty-seven would be a majority of the total.

Toward this goal Small now has thirteen votes corralled—nine from Bureau county and four from Grundy, both of whose conventions were com-

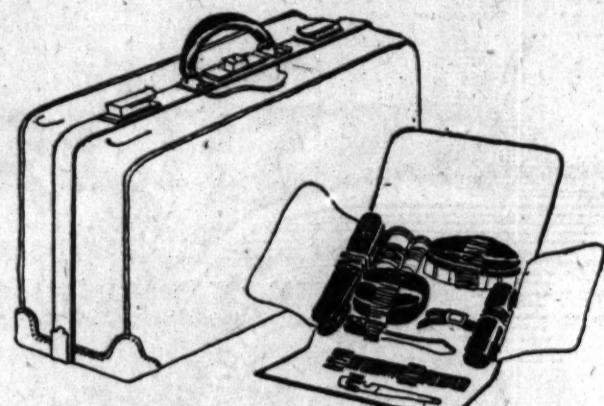

RISK COMPANIES HIT COMPULSORY AUTO INSURANCE

Insurance companies oppose the proposed compulsory automobile liability insurance law in this and other states because they feel that the reckless driver, who would benefit most by the coverage, is not entitled to such protection. E. P. Stanley, vice president of the Norwich Union Indemnity asserted yesterday at a City club luncheon.

Two reasons for this conclusion were advanced by Mr. Stanley. First, that in granting protection to such an individual, it is apt to make him even more reckless knowing that an insurance company will pay for his misdeeds. Second, that the resultant multiplicity of claims would make the cost of liability insurance prohibitive. Rates are based upon the total summary of the country's yearly accidents.

Take Command OF A COMMANDER

We offer to lend you this new Big Six Studebaker to test for yourself. It will out-speed, out-climb, and out-live any car within a thousand dollars of its price.

Match Commander against the finest motor cars

Note how it idles along smoothly in high gear through traffic jams but flashes ahead the instant an opening appears—POWER!

70 miles an hour—easily

Out on the open road—feel the thrill of 70 actual miles an hour with no sense of strain on the engine. Other cars may attain speed, but The Commander can maintain it.

Safety Plus

New standards of safety, at any speed, result from clear-vision all-steel bodies swayed low to the road, matchless four-wheel brakes, and the finest steering mechanism ever devised.

Think of all the above advantages while you are driving The Commander. As you find them you will learn why the Big Six shattered all previous transcontinental motoring records . . . even beat the schedules of the crack Limited trains.

And at a One-Profit price

When you consider the low price which One-Profit manufacture has made possible for The Commander you will realize why the Big Six far outsells every other car in the world of equal or greater rated horsepower.

HERE are no strings on this offer. You take a Commander. You drive it. You judge Studebaker by what the car does in your hands. No obligation except to tell your friends about it.

Only by having thousands of Chicagoans drive this high spirited automobile can we win public appreciation of Studebaker's wonderful achievement.

You knew this

Studebaker dependability has long been recognized—universally. The grace and beauty of Studebaker's custom-cars has won general admiration.

—but not this!

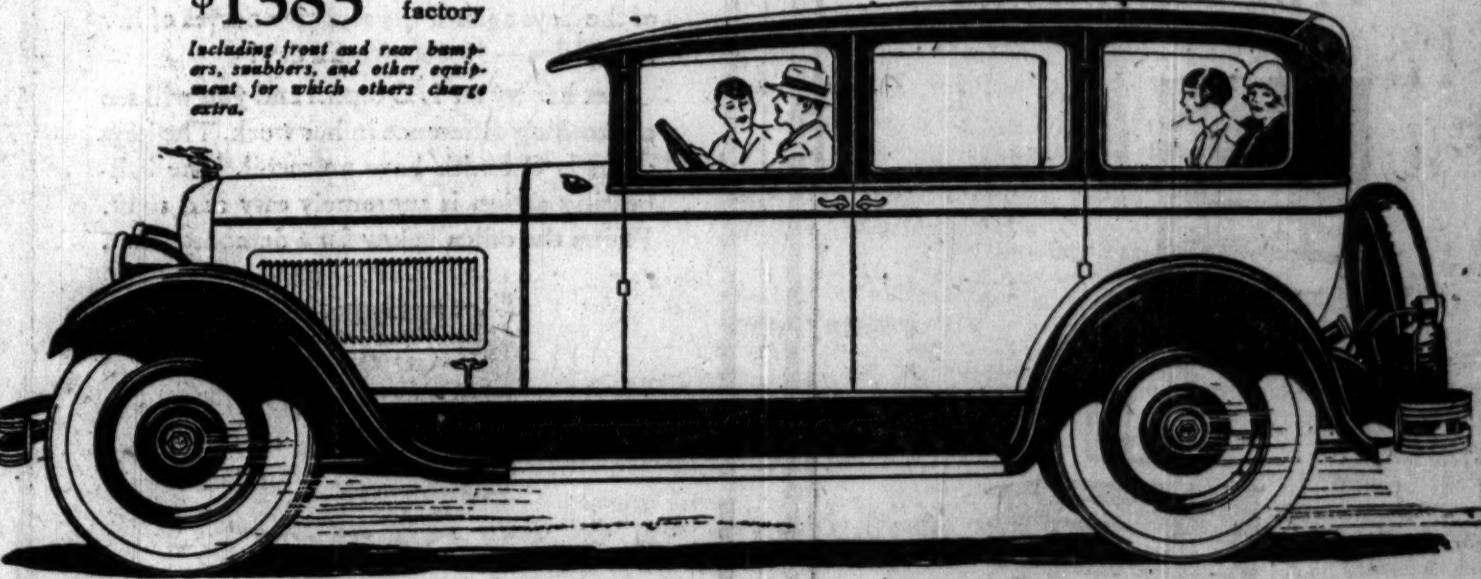

But the public does not yet realize that Studebaker performance is now far in advance of all competition.

In fact we didn't know it

Not until engineers on our million dollar proving ground checked The Commander against competitive cars did we ourselves know what a smashing victory the Big Six engine and chassis (plus the new, light, low-swung steel bodies) had won.

STONE GETS KNOX COUNTY; SMALL SEEKS DEADLOCK

Stark Votes Today on Judicial Delegates.

BY PARKE BROWN.
(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)

Knox County Republicans enrolled as a unit today for the defense of the judiciary against political assault.

The county convention selected its thirteen delegates to the Fifth Supreme court district convention and instructed them to "cast their solid vote" for Justice Clyde E. Stone, who signed the famous $1,000,000 decision against Gov. Small, an act for which the governor is trying to throw him off the bench.

So sweeping was the victory here that one state employee who informed the majority that the Small forces are said to have shifted their plans so that their aim henceforth will be to dead-lock the district convention with the aim of throwing their strength to any candidate they think can beat Justice Stone.

Bailey Predicts Deadlock.

The deadlock scheme is said to have been agreed upon by a prediction that effect by H. U. Bailey of Princeton, Bureau county. Small's director of trade and commerce. Bailey is quoted here as forecasting a deadlock with a compromise probably on Circuit Judge Joe A. Davis of his home town.

JADWIN VISIONS FIXED BRIDGES HERE IN FUTURE

Not Practical at This Time, Congress Told.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service.)
Washington, D. C., March 1.—(Special.)—Chicago's fight for fixed bridges and the elimination of marine delays caused by the use of movable bridges over the Chicago river will be won as soon as satisfactory arrangements are effected for handling at other points the lake traffic now using the river terminals.

This was disclosed today in the war department, in a special report to Gen. Maj. Gen. JADWIN, gross, disappeared construction of fixed bridges at this time. The report clearly indicated, however, that the war department's objections can easily be overcome if arrangements are made so that navigation interests will not be affected by fixed bridges.

It was suggested that lighters eventually could be used for handling traffic on the river while the principal lake traffic could be diverted through the Sag and Calumet channels.

River Traffic Declines.

The traffic on the Chicago river is showing a marked decline," Maj. Gen. Edgar Jadwin, chief of engineers, said in a letter submitted with the report. "The development of waterways between Lake Michigan and the Gulf of Mexico and the great lakes and the Atlantic sea coast would result in a material increase in Chicago's commerce. No reason is apparent why this increased commerce should not move by way of the Calumet and Sag channels. By far the greater amount of commerce is now handled at Calumet harbor and river and at Indiana Harbor.

A very material traffic is now handled on the Chicago river in vessels of a type which cannot be accommo-

WIDOW, 4 CHILDREN TO SHARE ESTATE OF BENJAMIN CARPENTER

Benjamin Carpenter, one of Chicago's leading business men, who died a week ago, left his estate, which may total close to $1,000,000, to be divided equally among his widow and four children, according to the will filed yesterday before Assistant Probate Judge Edward S. Scheffler.

Some surprise was occasioned by the official estimate that the estate was valued at only $300,000. Attorney Thomas L. Marshall, son in law of Mr. Carpenter and named as executor, explained that a detailed inventory had not been taken and no definite estimate could be reached. The estimate was conservative, he said.

Mr. Carpenter was 61 years old and a member of one of Chicago's oldest families. He was a brother of United States Judge George A. Carpenter, Hubbard Carpenter and John Alden Carpenter. He was president of George B. Carpenter & Co., ship chandlers, vice president of the Anniston, Ala., Cordage company, a director of the Commonwealth Edison Co., the Illinois Merchants Trust company and other corporations.

The heirs, each of whom received one-fifth of the estate, are Mrs. Grahame Carpenter, the widow of 1545 Astor street, and the four children, Mrs. Cordele Fairbank Davis, 460 Barry avenue; Mrs. Elizabeth Webster Marshall, 1545 Astor street; Benjamin Carpenter Jr., 1512 North Dearborn street, and Fairbank Carpenter, 1545 Astor street.

commodated under fixed bridges. The interests of navigation appear to demand continuation of present facilities as long as important traffic is moved in large vessels.

The opening of draw bridges for the passage of vessels is a permanent delusion in a large city, but the remedy appears to be a change in the industrial and commercial arrangements whereby it will be possible to handle the traffic by other means or at some other point.

Opposes Fixed Bridges.

"The river commerce is declining, due, probably, to hazards incident to passing through the bridges, to comparatively swift current and to bends in the channel. There are indications that these conditions will eventually be improved if the removal from the Chicago river of that class of traffic which cannot be moved under fixed bridges. In view of the conditions now existing, I report that fixed bridges over the Chicago river and its branches

WATERWAY JOB BIDDER ACCUSES W. F. MULVIHILL

His Offer Lowest but Rejected, Is Charge.

Engineer's Recommendations.

An examination of war department investigations disclosed that the district engineer at Chicago recommended that the secretary of war be authorized, upon recommendation of the chief engineer, to permit the construction, maintenance and use of fixed bridges, provided that satisfactory arrangements are made to accommodate lake traffic elsewhere.

The district engineer also would require that all bridges have a minimum clearance of 21 feet for at least 110 feet of the span; and that the city of Chicago be required to maintain the channel to a depth of at least 15 feet.

Suggests River Lock.

The district engineer, Gen. Jadwin said, "believes that a head room of 21 feet should be provided above low water datum. While this could be accomplished by rebuilding the present bridges at greater cost, he believes that it would be more economical to permanently lower the river surface $\frac{1}{4}$ feet below low water datum of Lake Michigan by the construction of a lock and dam at the entrance.

Controlling works of this nature are required to be constructed by the sanitary district of Chicago as a condition of the permit issued March 3, 1925. The gross savings to the city would be large if the lake vessel traffic were diverted elsewhere.

Warner stated that his bid was unwelcome and unexpected to Mulvihill and that the latter sought a way to prevent him from getting the job. At a meeting in Mulvihill's office, the waterways superintendent verbally attacked Warner in a violent, insulting manner, the bill states, and asserted that the contractor was irresponsible.

Threatens to Quit.

As a climax, Mulvihill threatened to resign if the Warner bids were accepted, and finally all the bids were rejected. The suit asks that the bid be awarded to Warner and that no other bid may be accepted at a future time.

Mulvihill acted arbitrarily, capriciously, and with a view to promoting favoritism to other bidders, the bill declared. He was not acting in good faith but had ulterior motives, it was charged. The superintendent had too much power, it was asserted, to reject all bids and the door is thus opened, it was stated, to fraud, collusion, and the manipulation of bids for improper purposes.

HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE.
Franklin Cotton, 21 years old, 725 North LaSalle street, was indicted in the Old Avenue police on forgery charge brought by A. E. Nissen of the Salvation Army.

GALUMET SHIP HARBOR DOWNED BY MULVIHILL

Declares He Never Will
O. K. the Project.

Virtually all hope for state approval of the city-Nickel Plate Lake Calumet harbor ordinance, in its present form, was killed last night by William F. Mulvihill, state superintendent of waterways, in a speech to the South End chamber of commerce.

Answering the city's recent reply to his seventeen objections to the plan, the always chief made it clear that so long as he is in office a permit for the ordinance will not be granted. After a two hour discussion, largely a reiteration of his former objections and attacks upon Mayor Deyer for "playing horse with the project" and William Hale Thompson for "boasting about waterway progress with which he had nothing to do," he wound up with an indirect campaign boost for Dr. John Dill Robertson.

Declares for New Mayor.

"My advice to you is to elect a new mayor and not one that has ever held the office," he said. "Then you might get some action by the city instead of so much speculative conversation and delay."

There are but two alternative methods of making the city-state deadlock, he said. "The city must agree to pay the Nickel Plate in cash, instead of land, the difference between the $600,000 the railroad agrees to pay and the actual cost of its dredging and dredging lands for industrial development or jurisdiction must be taken from the city entirely and placed in the hands of a Calumet harbor district by act of the legislature."

See End of Ordinance.

The first alternative, according to city officials, would remove the heart of the ordinance as it now stands. The second would require its abandonment altogether and years of delay pending legislative action.

Ald. Ross A. Woodhull (7th) and Sheldon W. Covier (8th) made brief references to Mr. Mulvihill, defending the efforts of the administration to work out a conciliatory settlement and go forward with the improvement. Owing to the time taken by Mr. Mulvihill, however, they were unable to answer his statements in detail.

Counsel for the state of New York

WISCONSIN AND NEW YORK DIVERT FLOW OF WATER

Washington, D. C., March 1. (Special) — Evidence disclosing that New York state and Wisconsin, two of the states now opposing the diversion of water through the sanitary canal at Chicago, have diverted water from one watershed into another was presented before Charles Evans Hughes, special master in the lake levels suit.

Additional evidence, which was produced by M. G. Barnes, chief engineer for the Illinois division of waterways, was considered of the greatest importance by counsel for Chicago and the sanitary district.

Mr. Barnes testified that Wisconsin had diverted water through the Fox river from the Mississippi watershed, where it was needed for navigation, to the Lake Michigan water-shed.

He stated also that New York state now diverts water through the Black river for navigation purposes and in that way affects the levels of the great lakes.

Counsel for the state of New York

strenuously opposed the evidence, but their objection was overruled by Master Hughes.

Additional testimony disclosing other water diversions from the great lakes by New York state will be introduced later, according to William E. Dietz, attorney for the state of Illinois.

Counsel for the Chicago sanitary district were frustrated today when they attempted to show that halting the water diversion would impose a greater financial burden on the people of Chicago than they could bear.

Objections on the part of opposing counsel to the introduction of figures showing valuations of loop property and tax rates now being paid were sustained by Master Hughes.

YOU may take some satisfaction, if you should buy this dining room group, that it has the characteristic features of the period known as Spanish Renaissance.

Those old Spanish "rough-riders" who joined the Crusaders left homes furnished in stern simplicity. When they came back they had seen a lot of beauty they hadn't known about before; and the plain simplicity gave way to greater luxury and charm.

Berkey & Gay made these pieces; walnut and gumwood; very substantially made. The panels are carved, and there is much hand decoration. It is really very ornate furniture; but not so much so that it doesn't fit comfortably into the environment of the modern American home.

The prices, as you see, are quite moderate considering the fact that the furniture comes from one of the great quality sources. We can show you many other choice things when you come.

BORAH TO CALLES.

Senator Borah's correspondence with President Calles of Mexico is revealed as consisting of inquiries and replies concerning the number of oil companies which have accepted the Mexican law and have obtained concessions and the number which have refused to do so. Calles replied by wire and promised more information in a letter, hoping that "God may grant the date submitted to you, to be of use" and subscribing himself "affectionately, President Calles."

The information submitted indicated that concessions embracing 26,835,000 acres of land are operating under the Mexican law and concessions embracing only 1,661,000 acres are defiant. The inference is that the dispute between the United States and Mexican governments threatening a break in relations, concerns only the defiant 22 companies, whereas 330 companies have accepted the situation.

Some of Mr. Borah's fellow senators were astonished to learn that he was in direct communication, as chairman of the senate committee on foreign affairs, with the Mexican president. The proceeding is unusual. Evidently Mr. Borah distrusts the information he could get from the American state department.

Mr. Kellogg must be as well informed as to these facts as President Calles is. Mr. Borah apparently suspects that Mr. Kellogg is capable of falsifying the record and that either he may deserve President Coolidge or that the President may support him in such deception. This is the situation as Mr. Borah's correspondence pictures it. Apparently there would be no deception unless it were intended to cover an action not justified by the real conditions.

The United States government has been holding or trying to hold the Mexican government to the terms of an agreement upon which the United States took a definite action much desired by Mexico at the time. Oregon's government was recognized when guarantees were given for the protection of American property legally held under Mexican law, confiscation under newer provisions of the Mexican constitution.

This agreement is not recognized by the present Mexican government and its validity is insisted upon by the American government. It has been intimated that unless the agreement is good the United States may revert to the position it occupied before the agreement was made. It can do so by withdrawing recognition. There has not been any threat of war, but American pacifists have concluded that the withdrawal of recognition would encourage a revolution against Calles in Mexico and that the moral responsibility for the disorders would be upon the United States. It is also entirely probable that some of the pacifists believe the United States is endeavoring to produce just such a situation as an excuse for intervention and conquest. That is a wild picture of President Coolidge and Mr. Kellogg in their attitude toward international affairs.

The alternative of the government's position is apparent. It is to accept the repudiation of agreements as a basis for future relations with Mexico. The United States refuses to have official relations with Soviet Russia because such repudiation is a principle of communistic procedure in international affairs.

If Mr. Borah is clear in his idea of what he is doing a great many other people may not be. He is advising Calles that the foreign relations committee of the senate does not trust the information it gets from the American state department. That alone would cause Calles to think affectionately of the chairman of the committee and he would naturally conclude that Mr. Borah will support Mexican policies with Mexican facts.

He is strengthened in this by the knowledge that the senate unanimously declared for arbitration of the Mexican issues. Mr. Kellogg's notes to Mexico will be foolish when they are received if not when they are sent. Mr. Kellogg represents a client who has gone over to the counsel for the opposition.

As a United States senator Mr. Borah is authorized to give his advice and consent to the American administration. He seems about to give it to the Mexican.

LORD BUTTER AND EGGS.

Lord Rosebery, former British premier, is pressing his inquiry into the British slush fund. David Lloyd George, also former premier, has $12,500,000 in his party war chest and Rosebery wants to know how he got it. Lloyd George gives the obvious retort: If Rosebery wants to know, all he has to do is to recall how he financed his own general election in 1895. The British big butter and egg men get their Norman blood and coronets by giving money to party funds. Norman blood and coronets may not be so good as simple faith and loving hearts, but their cash value is greater.

Rosebery says at least $40,000 have money tainted titles and he would like to have them explain the origin of their nobility. If Samuel Insull had remained in the land of his birth and had prospered there as he has here he probably would have taken an interest in politics, but his position in the upper house of the national legislature would be entirely different. Here, because of the contributions he made in politics, he faces punishment by the senate for contempt. He might even be sent to jail. In London he would be sitting in the house of lords as Lord Kilowatt, Earl of Westinghouse. For $300,000 he could be first lord of the bed chamber. It may be easier to make money here, but certainly abroad they can show us ways of spending it. Here if a gentleman slips a politician more than a quarter we make a bum out of him. In Great Britain they make him an earl.

With such encouragement the strain of noble blood is renewed in every distribution of honors with a fresh flood of patent medicines, printer's ink, gasoline, house paint, Scotch whisky, bitter ale and other commodities in which solvency can be obtained and from which campaign contributions can be made. This renewal of youth with the occasional marrying of actresses is what keeps the beauty and chivalry alive.

Lord Rosebery in his old age has developed an aristocratic disdain for it, but in his youth when he faced the future and was determined to make it his, he said that he had three ambitions. One was to be prime minister, the second to marry the heiress in England and the third to win the Derby. He succeeded in all three and what Englishman could ask for more? But he retains the old prejudice that although it is correct for a man to buy a fortune with a title it is wrong for him to buy a title with a fortune. A big cheese man may buy a title for his daughter or leave enough money even for his widow to get one, but as for him himself, once a cheese man always a cheese man and never Lord Cheddar.

AN ISSUE OF PARAMOUNT IMPORTANCE.

The board of governors of the state bar association has passed the following highly appropriate and timely resolution:

"Whereas, Hon. Clyde E. Stone, chief justice of the Supreme court, has rendered faithful and efficient service as a member of that court and has demonstrated his fitness for that position, and his independence of political domination;

"Whereas, It should be the policy of the people of this state to retain in office judges who, regardless of their political affiliations, have been faithful, competent, and fearless in the performance of their duties;

"Therefore, be it resolved by the board of governors of the Illinois State Bar association, in regular meeting assembled, That we favor the renomination of Justice Stone and oppose any attempt to intimidate our judiciary by making renomination subject to political expediency rather than demonstrated fitness and experience."

It is to be hoped all the local bar associations will follow this course, and especially those of the Fifth Supreme court district, in which the effort is being made by Mr. Small and his politicians to remove Mr. Justice Stone for doing his duty as judge and citizen. The issue is essential to the integrity and independence of all our courts and is one of the most vital to the security of citizens and to the welfare of the state in the history of Illinois.

THE CIVIC AUDITORIUM.

The suggestions of President Cermak of the county board regarding a civic auditorium for Chicago deserve serious study. Mr. Cermak has embodied his ideas in a letter to Mayor Dever. He points to the need for a large assembly hall and then passes to a consideration of how the construction of the hall might be financed.

The difficulty here lies in the fact that the city is at the limit of its bonding power already.

Mr. Cermak is of the opinion that the county's credit might be employed. The city might furnish the site, draw the plans, and supervise construction, while the county could advance the money upon the promise of the city to repay it. This method has been used before, notably in the installation of street lights through the help of the sanitary district.

Mr. Cermak is inclined to think favorably of the site of the county jail and Criminal court which will become city property as soon as the new jail on the west side is completed. The site has much to recommend it. It is close to the center of the city and is fairly well served by the transportation lines. Governmental bodies have a way of allowing valuable real estate to go unused if the civic auditorium is erected on the jail site, the land would be well employed. On the other hand, it must be admitted that the jail site alone is almost certainly too small for the purpose and it may be too, that the entire block would be too small, assuming that it could be acquired. The location, however, is a detail. The important fact is that public officials are beginning to think seriously of the project and to make preliminary plans.

Chicago has accommodations now for almost every kind of convention and meeting. We have the hotels, halls, and transportation facilities for handling enormous numbers of transients and, equally important, experience in handling them, as was well illustrated at the Army-Navy game. We lack a meeting hall large enough to care for national party conventions and other gatherings of similar scope. The Coliseum is our nearest approach to a proper setting and it suffers for two reasons: it is too small and it is not correctly designed for some kinds of meetings. The Coliseum is now inadequate even for the larger trade expositions, such as the automobile show. The steel working exposition had to be held at the Municipal pier because, or so it was said at the time, the construction of the Coliseum was not strong enough to carry the heavy machinery on exhibition.

What is needed is a hall like the civic auditorium in Cleveland. That building was the attraction which took the Republican convention of 1924 away from Chicago. Chicago lacks, also, a proper setting for indoor sports. A great hall, seating 30,000 or more, is needed. It will go far toward clinching Chicago's position as the nation's meeting place, the unofficial capital of industry, trade, agriculture, and transportation.

WE'RE A GOOD LOSER. (The Des Moines Capital)

The tragedy for Iowa that occurred this week at St. Petersburg, Fla., is one that Iowa, to prove its gallantry, will steel itself to.

The horseback pitching championship of the universe has been lost, temporarily, by the state to which it belongs, and has been won by an Ohioan.

Frank Jackson of Kellerton, Ia., and Potts Moosman of Eldora have been vanquished—temporarily.

Iowa makes no apologies. It offers no alibis. The best man on the particular day, it will be conceded, was. As for another day, in another year—ah, that's a different matter.

Iowa will omit to point out that, being now so emphatically an automobile state, it is at a certain disadvantage in competing with a horse state at the sport of horseback slinging.

Iowa takes its hat off to Ohio, simply and proudly with a certain impressive dignity.

Next fall a little of the sting may be taken from this sporting defeat by Iowa's football warriors. And, when next summer comes, watch our ringers!

of the contributions he made in politics, he faces punishment by the senate for contempt. He might even be sent to jail. In London he would be sitting in the house of lords as Lord Kilowatt, Earl of Westinghouse. For $300,000 he could be first lord of the bed chamber. A big cheese man may buy a title for his daughter or leave enough money even for his widow to get one, but as for him himself, once a cheese man always a cheese man and never Lord Cheddar.

At the time of the attack his blood pressure was 200. His usual dinner was enough to put his pressure up to 150 or 160. He had learned to live largely on vegetables. He depended principally on exercise in the open air and moderation in all things to keep his pressure down.

He had provided himself with a vegetable garden in which he put in an hour or more at work daily. Of all forms of exercise he had found gardening best for himself. Chopping trees and cutting brush were good exercise, but growing corn and other vegetables. He had found that a few days of confinement to the office with physical inaction sufficed to put his pressure up. He had learned to eat in great moderation—in fact, to undereat. In consequence he had lost a good deal of weight but the good had more than offset that.

Dr. Plumley gave his personal experience with high blood pressure. The disorder was the customary cause of death in the Rogers family. Furthermore, it generally grabbed them at an earlier life period than the doctor had attained. He had been led to believe, on several occasions, that the under-taker was waiting just around the corner. However, up to date he had managed to escape. He had tried many suggestions. He had about come to the conclusion that the only way to beat the game was to do everything in moderation and to let it go at that. Cures and specifics had not proved very satisfactory.

Several of the speakers told of the good that was done by going to bed and resting quietly as a means of temporarily lowering high blood pressure.

Dr. McDowell told of his success in lowering blood pressure with liver extract. He had found that on course of liver extract would pull the pressure down, but that it would soon go up again. After the second course it went up more slowly. And, after a third, still more so. It was not claimed that any number of courses of liver extract would keep the pressure down permanently, especially if the individual had heart or kidney trouble or was disposed to live a life of ease.

Dr. Joseph Miller told of his experience with gentlemen who indulge in cards. A stiff game of poker would put the pressure up to 30 points. Up it went—win or lose. Therefore, if a man with high blood pressure must play poker, he should always win. In that way he lays up funds for the widow and he himself no more than he would be losing.

Every speaker was for moderation in all things physical and emotional as the core of the treatment of high blood pressure.

DENY CROARKIN WAS AGITATED DAY OF SLAYING

Boy Witnesses Tell of Crime Setting.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Twelve witnesses for the state placed together yesterday the story of what happened in the old barn of the Devon riding academy on the afternoon of Dec. 17 last, when Harold J. Croarkin repaid the society that had nursed him and protected him to a stumbling manhood by killing the 6 year old boy that he had made the victim of his abnormal instincts.

Strange contradictions in this nature. A little while before the murder he had taken a blanket from a horse to cover a litter of shivering puppies.

Unforgettable pictures came from boyish minds in the courtroom of Chief Justice William J. Lindsay as one by one the members of the neighborhood gang that loved to hang around the barn were called to the stand to fawn on what they had seen and what happened to the "little kid," Walter Schmidt.

Cold and Snowy.

It was a bitterly cold, snowy afternoon. Toward the close of the day Tony Hornak was sent out by Croarkin to get a pail of coffee. The bunch had been around the barn ever since school closed on Dec. 17 last? (this was an hour after the killing.)

Q—How long did he remain? A—About 35 minutes.

Q—Did you see him again that night? A—Yes, he came back about 8:30 or 9.

Q—Did he inquire for anyone? A—Yes, for my sister, Agnes.

Q—Were he and your sister going together? A—They were going together, but not at that time.

Attorney P. H. O'Donnell cross examined to bring out the condition of Croarkin.

The boy had been some talk between Hingle and Croarkin, it was brought out by Attorney Joseph P. Savage, special prosecutor, about their going into partnership in a livery.

Leon Hansford, a groom, and Arthur Lenke, a student at Northwestern, were with Hingle on the trip for the horses. It was Lenke who heard Croarkin.

When Tony trudged back over the snowy fields with his pail of coffee he found the barn locked. He beat on the door and called for "Halle," but no one answered. He put the coffee down and looked around Devon avenue and then came back to the door and called again.

"I heard some yelling," he testified. "I didn't know it was in the barn. I thought some kid was getting a beating from his mother."

So he took the coffee and went home.

State Closes Today.

Responsibility for the killing was firmly fixed upon Croarkin by the day's testimony, and the state will probably close its case with six or eight more witnesses. Then the battle will start to save Croarkin from the rope by showing how mad he has been all these years, that he had walked the streets as a maniac for weeks.

More important than the actual details of the tragedy was the evidence woven into the case to show Croarkin's mental condition before and after the killing. This is the basis for the expert opinions to come.

In one witness only did the defense get much evidence to support their theory that Croarkin had left his home at noon that day in a wild and staring condition, and was irresponsible.

BOULDER CANYON BILL IS SIDETRACKED; MAY HALT POWER LICENSES

Washington, D. C., March 1.—(AP)—Supporters of the Swing-Johnson Boulder canyon bill conceded today that the bill was dead, so far as this session of congress is concerned.

Refusal of the Republican steering committee in the house to give it right of way, on top of the inability to bring it to a vote in the senate, in the face of a determined filibuster, they said, made action before adjournment Friday an impossibility.

Ralph Hough, a boy from the Guardia Angel neighborhood who helps around the barn, said he saw Croarkin there at 1 p. m. on Dec. 17. He noticed something unusual. He left Croarkin there. Croarkin told him he would lock up.

George Hingle, a sandy haired Negro called Red, was the boss of the barn. He had known Croarkin since last November, and said he was a frequent visitor. On this day Red came to the barn with three men to get some horses that he had sold.

Croarkin was there, let them in and said, "Hello. I didn't expect you today, Red."

In the office later Croarkin offered him a drink from a pint bottle that had something that looked like gin in it. It was half full. He did not remember having taken a drink. Croarkin offered to get some sandwiches. He told him to get anything he wanted and Croarkin went out and came back with sandwiches.

Find Horse Unblanketed.

Red said he found a bunch gone from a poor horse and Croarkin said he had put it over puppies. Red told him never to take a blanket from a poor horse and showed him a fat horse that he had.

Hingle said he left about 4:30 or 5 o'clock, after the horses had been taken and his chores were done. He left three boys with Croarkin.

Mr. F. Comstock, owner of another bunch, testified that he had gone to the Devon barn for horses he had bought, and saw Croarkin there building a fire and chopping wood.

There had been some talk between Hingle and Croarkin, it was brought out by Attorney Joseph P. Savage, special prosecutor, about their going into partnership in a livery.

He didn't seem to have much to say," the witness responded. "He collapsed in a chair and asked if he could lie down. When he entered he sort of held his head and staggered. My mother told him to go home. He said, 'I have no home.' She asked him why and he said a doctor was going to inform his folks about something. I never found out just what. Going out he fell against the door, and back on the couch where he remained for ten minutes. My mother gave him a cup of tea and he went out."

Q—And he returned? A—Yes, in the second time I refused him admittance.

She asked him why and he said a doctor was going to inform his folks about something. I never found out just what. Going out he fell against the door, and back on the couch where he remained for ten minutes. My mother gave him a cup of tea and he went out."

Q—And he returned? A—Yes, in the second time I refused him admittance.

Ralph Hough, a boy from the Guardia Angel neighborhood who helps around the barn, said he saw Croarkin there at 1 p. m. on Dec. 17. He noticed something unusual. He left Croarkin there. Croarkin told him he would lock up.

George Hingle, a sandy haired Negro called Red, was the boss of the barn. He had known Croarkin since last November, and said he was a frequent visitor. On this day Red came to the barn with three men to get some horses that he had sold.

In the office later Croarkin offered him a drink from a pint bottle that had something that looked like gin in it. It was half full. He did not remember having taken a drink. Croarkin offered to get some sandwiches. He told him to get anything he wanted and Croarkin went out and came back with sandwiches.

Find Horse Unblanketed.

Red said he found a bunch gone from a poor horse and Croarkin said he had put it over puppies. Red told him never to take a blanket from a poor horse and showed him a fat horse that he had.

Hingle said he left about 4:30 or 5 o'clock, after the horses had been taken and his chores were done. He left three boys with Croarkin.

Mr. F. Comstock, owner of another bunch, testified that he had gone to the Devon barn for horses he had bought, and saw Croarkin there building a fire and chopping wood.

There had been some talk between Hingle and Croarkin, it was brought out by Attorney Joseph P. Savage, special prosecutor, about their going into partnership in a livery.

Leon Hansford, a groom, and Arthur Lenke, a student at Northwestern, were with Hingle on the trip for the horses. It was Lenke who heard Croarkin.

He didn't seem to have much to say," the witness responded. "He collapsed in a chair and asked if he could lie down. When he entered he sort of

held his head and staggered. My mother told him to go home. He said, 'I have no home.'

She asked him why and he said a doctor was going to inform his folks about something. I never found out just what. Going out he fell against the door, and back on the couch where he remained for ten minutes. My mother gave him a cup of tea and he went out."

Ask Receiver for Chicago
Mortgage Concern.

Nearly 4,000 small wage earners, more than 1,000 Chicagoans, have $2,000,000 through the United States Mortgage Company, 322 South Michigan boulevard, according to allegations made in a petition for receivership filed yesterday in Chancery Court, Wilmington, Del., where the company is incorporated.

Attorney Bernard J. Brown, representing a stockholders' protective committee, will go before Judge Hugo Black this morning to ask for appointment of a local receiver to compete with the eastern appointee in using over the concern's assets.

Attorney Makes Charge.

"Two instances show the most flagrant disregard for ordinary business experience," Attorney Brown said. "One is a brickyard in Indiana, which was taken over by the company and whose operations later were suspended. The other is an Ohio china manufacturing company in which the United States Mortgage Company owns stock. It has never paid dividends. More than $1,000,000 is involved in these two deals."

"All we want is the power to take over the company, thaw out the remaining assets, and save something," Mr. Brown said.

The company has not issued a financial statement since 1924, according to the attorney. It was originally incorporated for $6,000,000. President Charles D. Howe explained last night that unfortunate investors were responsible for a temporary financial stringency which made a statement unnecessary.

"Some of the stockholders are disappointed because they have not been receiving dividends," Mr. Howe said. "This condition is only temporary. As a matter of fact, I stand between them and those who would loot the company."

Pastor Heads Committee.

The Rev. K. G. Nielsen of Chicago heads the stockholders' committee bringing the action. They seek to have the corporation authorized to bring suit against Howe and H. E. Hall for the cancellation of 1,000 shares of the company's stock, said to have been obtained by them without payment. An accounting is demanded of all money taken from the treasury. If the corporation refuses to bring suit against Howe and Hall, who are said to be in control, the complainants will go ahead with their plea for a receivership, they said yesterday.

In all the corporation's assets were $1,000,000, according to the petition which charges that today the assets are said to be only $300,000, of which not more than $30,000 is said to be available.

WASHINGTON NOTES

(By the Associated Press)
Nomination of Abram F. Myers of Iowa to be a member of the federal trade commission was confirmed by the Senate. There were seven dissenting votes.

The Senate confirmed the nominations of Edgar B. Brocard of Utah, Sherman J. Lowell of New York, and Lincoln Dixon of Indiana to be members of the tariff commission.

Reversing its earlier position, the House Judiciary Committee approved a bill granting immunity to witnesses compelled by the government to testify in criminal cases. The measure was sponsored by Owen J. Roberts and Alvin Pomerene, the government's special oil counsel, and has the approval of the attorney general. It is intended to aid the government in its prosecution of the cases growing out of the Senate oil inquiry.

The second army housing bill authorizing an appropriation of $7,115,000 for new barracks and other building needs at various army posts was sent to the President.

The $5,000,000 appropriation authorized for loans to farmers to buy needed equipment in the second deficiency appropriation bill by the Senate appropriations committee.

Senator Robinson of Indiana was admitted to practice before the Supreme Court on motion of his colleague, Senator Watson.

March Field, Riverside, Cal., has been selected as a future permanent army air corps station and for immediate air corps station and for immediate air corps training center.

that the United States may undertake to dominate by force their economic and political life."

Klan Is Aiding Callers.

Officers of the federal council assert that the organization in this drive was actuated purely by pacifist motives and not by antagonism to the Roman Catholics which animated the Ku Klux Klan and other anti-Catholic elements in putting over the reorganization resolution. The Klan influence is being exerted behalf of Calles, Mexico, and Sacas in Nicaragua in the interest of warfare on the Catholic church.

Some of the denominations involved have begun to protest against the council's propagandist activities upon which millions of dollars contributed by the churches are being expended. The general assembly of the Presbyterians voted to condemn the council on Jan. 2, 1926, deplored "the recent unauthorized pronouncement by the Federal council of Churches of Christ in America upon the prohibition question" and requesting "that in the future all pronouncements upon great moral questions which affect this church be submitted to the general assembly for approval."

The United Lutheran church appointed a committee of seven which reported that the council is "more formally than actually representative of the constituency for which it speaks and acts" and that the churches are not responsible for the act of the council.

Not Always in Harmony.

The activities of the council in social, civic, and political spheres, says this report, "are not always in harmony with the spirit of the gospel or consistent with the principle or separation between church and state."

The council issues a vast amount of pacifistic literature and recommends radically pacifistic books such as "The Abolition of War," by Sherwood Eddy and Kirby Page. This book says that in the next war not everyone who fights will surely go to prison or to death rather than take any destructive part in what they believe with the Federal Council of Churches is the world's chief collective sin."

The Kirby Page anti-war service pledge sent to 125,000 clergymen to sign proposed to "say to the government" that "I never again will sanction or participate in any war" and "will not give financial or moral support to any war." The National Civic Federation reported that clergymen very largely refused to sign this seductive pledge.

The council is engaged in fighting compulsory military training in the schools and looks askance at military training even when it is voluntary. In its pamphlet on the subject it is shocked to learn that the infantry drill regulations reacted upon the February of 1925, which added to the total exceeded by $8,622,600 the total for the first two months of 1925, with $48,228,400 held the record for the first two months of any previous year. NEW FILIBUSTER AGAINST PROBING OF SLUSH FUNDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

Washington, D. C., March 1.—[Special]—A new filibuster threatened today to tie up all controversial legislation in the senate. It was directed particularly at the motion of Senator Reed (Dems., Mo.) for an extension of the authority of the campaign fund investigation committee.

An incidental effect was to block action on both proposals before congress adjourns on Friday. Senator Moses served notice that he would attempt to hold the senate in session all night tomorrow in order to wear down the filibuster.

Hold Up Appropriation Bill.

Senator La Follette (Rep., Wis.), a member of the Reed committee, rallied against those responsible for the filibuster by objecting to the transaction of all routine business. His objections and those of others prevented the reporting of the second deficiency appropriation bill and other measures.

Senator Reed (Rep., Pa.), and Moses (Rep., N.J.), were chiefly responsible for the filibuster. They made it plain that they would leave nothing undone in their efforts to keep the investigating committee from investigating.

The Reed resolution for a continuance of the power of the campaign fund committee and including a specific authorization for the opening of the ballot boxes of the Pennsylvania senatorial election of last fall was a special order for the consideration of the senate today. Senator Reed (Pa.) at the opening of the session said

asked

whether the cloture adopted on the prohibition reorganization bill did not take precedence over the special order, even during the morning business period. Vice President Dawes declined to rule on the point of order and the senate voted, 21 to 61, against the displacement of the special order.

Moses Leads Daily Tactic.

Senator Moses then demanded the reading of the journal of yesterday's proceedings. It was the first time since the filibuster against the Dyer anti-lynching bill, several years ago, that the reading of the journal had not been dispensed with by unanimous consent. The reading of the journal was still in progress when 2 o'clock arrived, and the prohibition reorganization bill was placed before the senate.

and his brother Campbell Carrington of New York, in front of the residence of the former's wife, Mrs. Annette Carrington, were disclosed today as one brother was arraigned in police court and the other recuperated from the battle in the polyclinic hospital.

E. C. Carrington is plaintiff in a suit for absolute divorce from Mrs. Carrington;

pending in the Chicago courts,

and also has filed an action for $1,000, allegation of affections against his brother Campbell, also in Chicago.

To meet out the legal ramifications Mrs.

Carrington has interposed a counter suit for divorce, charging the colonel with cruelty, abuse, and misconduct with a Miss Miss Le Vine, 23, of Chi-

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating too much. Foods which create acids, says a well known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys are sluggish and slow you must relieve them like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinary waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach aches, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithium, and has been used for years to help clear and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of soft water.

INTRIGUING LIAR, QUEEN'S RETORT TO U. S. ROORBACK

Marie Calls Chicago Cops Her Friends.

Queen Marie is homesick for America. She regards the Chicago police as personal friends. And be who says otherwise is "a complete liar."

The Queen of Roumania declared all this and more in a cable which she sent yesterday to Charles J. Vopicka, a Chicago friend, in emphatic denial of an article, published recently in several newspapers throughout this country, which reported her as having begun, upon her arrival in Bucharest, a bombardment of criticism against the Americans who had interfered in her last fall.

The article also portrayed her as having a special paragraph or two of indictment for the Chicago police force.

Queen Expresses Indignation.

Mr. Vopicka, who was for seven years minister plenipotentiary to Rou-mania, Bulgaria and Serbia, and who has been recently appointed a member of the Chicago board of education, yesterday received the following cable

from Queen Marie:

"Please allow me to express indignation at the lies being spread about my feelings for America and the Americans. So much did I love Americans and the Americans that I feel sometimes positively homesick and in days of grief my time in the United States appears to me as a beautiful dream."

"As to the police of Chicago, I admired and am grateful to them for the way they looked after me everywhere I went. They were like personal friends. Whoever dared to say that I speak slightly of the Americans was in an intriguing liar. I hope you will let this be known to everybody."

Marie's Second Denial.

This is the second denial within the last few days to reach Chicago. The other came last Saturday to Mrs. Ira Nelson Morris of the Illinois Women's Athletic club, via M. Cretzona, Roumanian minister at Washington, who had received a message from the queen. The substance of that message was that the report had been instigated as revenge work by a former vice consul, who was piqued because he had been recalled.

66 BELIEVED DEAD IN TWO BRITISH MINE DISASTERS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service]

LONDON, March 1.—Sixty-six men are believed to have been killed in two simultaneous mine disasters in Mon-mouthshire and Nottinghamshire to day. Fifty-two are reported dead at Ebbw Vale, Monmouthshire, where an explosion flooded the mine with poison gas while 125 were working in the pit.

A bursting water pipe caused the disaster in the Nottingham mine, hurling seventeen men to the bottom of the pit. Only three were brought up alive.

Men were brought from a dance at a village miles away to assist in the rescue work.

INDIANA EDITOR HELD IN OHIO ON LIBEL CHARGE

Muncie, Ind., March 1.—[Special.] Extradition papers were being prepared here tonight by Prosecutor Joseph H. Davis in an effort to bring George R. Dale, Muncie publisher, from Ohio to face a charge of criminal libel preferred in the local circuit court, of which Clerence W. Dearth is judge. The grand jury returned the indictment last week.

Dale was arrested this morning at Fort Recovery, O., just across the state line, and the Ohio Constable, W. C. Word from Celina tonight said that Dale was held in jail there in default of $3,000 bond. It was understood that habeas corpus proceedings will be instituted in his behalf tomorrow.

A house committee of the Indiana legislature which has been looking into the question of bringing impeachment proceedings against Judge Dearth because of alleged jury irregularities and interference with the distribution of Dale's weekly newspaper took no action today.

MEDICAL WHISKY BILL PASSED BY HOUSE, 209-151

Calls for Rum to Be Kept in Six Warehouses.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service) Washington, D. C., March 1.—(Special)—Modified to limit distillers' profits and fix retail prices, the Hawley bill, the medicinal-liquor bill, providing for the concentration of existing whisky stocks and the manufacture of replenishments as needed, was passed in the house this afternoon by a vote of 209 to 151 and sent to the senate.

As first passed, the measure proposed the concentration of existing whisky stocks now held in 51 bonded warehouses throughout the country in six warehouses and would authorize the treasury department to issue permits for manufacture of replenishments to not more than six distillers. The bill provides for direct shipment of whisky from the warehouses to retail druggists, eliminating the whole-saler druggist in the distribution scheme.

Limiting Distillers' Profits.

The amendments offered by Representative W. E. Hull [Rep., Ill.], limiting the distillers' profits to a maximum of 10 cents a gallon and allowing the retail druggist not to exceed 100 per cent profit, are credited with having broken down the opposition of leading drys, who had combined with others to defeat the bill.

As originally brought to the floor with the unanimous approval of the ways and means committee, the bill would have prohibited distillers from making "a fair and reasonable profit" and in that form had been subjected to severe criticism from the drys on the ground that it proposed to create a huge whisky monopoly assuring millions of dollars profit annually to the favored Aid for Mellon.

While many dry leaders who had opposed the bill during the general debate switched to its support on the final roll call, others, including Representative Blanton [Dem., Tex.], and Representative Buckley [Dem., Ky.], from Kentucky, voted against it. Representative Howard [Dem., N. J.] suggested an amendment to change the title of the bill from "the medicinal spirits act of 1927" to "an act for the relief of Andrew Mellon and associates," which was downed by a vote of 85 to 44.

In the senate, Senator Copeland [Dem., N. Y.] declared his intention to support the pending prohibition and reorganization bill, although he is conservative in his politics and "even if the army, navy and marine corps are mustered into service as enforcers." In the same speech, Senator Copeland declared it is the "fanaticism" displayed by his brother wets, Senators Bruce [Dem., Md.], and Edwards [Dem., N. J.], which does the wet cause "irreparable harm" and causes sincere "modificationists" to be denounced as nullificationists."

MASS CANAL ZONE ARMY ON PACIFIC AS 'ENEMY' NEARS

Expect 'Orange' Fleet to Strike Quickly.

BY ROY BLANK.

(Chicago Tribune Press Service) (Copyright: 1927, by The Chicago Tribune)

RALBOA, Canal Zone, March 1.—With the diplomatic relations between the "Blue," which is the United States, and the "Orange" and "Black" forces, representing an Asiatic and a European power, respectively, stretched to the breaking point, the international situation in theoretically beyond diplomatic controversy, and a virtual state of war exists in the United States army and navy members of the Canal Zone command.

Although "war" has not been declared, the Panama Canal is expected to be momentarily attacked from the Pacific.

It is learned that the "Orange" battle fleet is steaming toward the canal, and though their intentions are not known, the "Blues" believe the "Orange" force intends to strike the canal and declare war simultaneously.

Brig. Gen. Charles Martin ordered all the troops in the Canal Zone to be on the alert to take a defensive position.

The reserve officers employed by the government, who were called out, donned their uniforms and joined the ranks.

Black Fleet Under Way.

The "Black" fleet, which is of undetermined size and whose destination is not known, is bound for the Caribbean from a West Indian port, the "Blue" intelligence reporting.

The "Blacks" are bound by a treaty with the "Orange" forces, but the "Blacks" are still so far from the Atlantic entrance to the canal that the "Blues" do not fear an immediate "Black" attack from the Atlantic side.

The distance at which the "Black" forces have been located has enabled Gen. Martin to transfer all the troops from the Atlantic to the Pacific side of the canal to be in readiness for the defense against the "Orange's" anticipated attack.

Moves Troops to Pacific Side.

Five special trains with eighty-six coaches this morning carried all the troops and equipment from the Atlantic to the Pacific side. Thousands of troops now are in marching positions. Wires for communication are being laid. All the planes from France field army base at Cristobal were transferred to Albrook field at Balboa.

The Young Mother.

The ills of infants and children should be so well known to the youngest of mothers that a reminder or a repetition of the symptoms of illness seems unnecessary, yet there are some mothers who overlook a feverish condition, a little colic, or a disposition to be irritable. If not corrected they may lead to serious sickness. And to correct them, to bring Baby back to its happy self, is so easy by the use of Castoria—a medicine prepared just for infants and children. It will regulate the bowels (not force them), aid digestion and so bring quiet and rest.

Fletcher's Castoria has been doing this for over 30 years; regulating the stomach and bowels of infants and children. It has replaced the nauseating Castor Oil, so-called Soothing Syrups, poisonous Paregoric and other vicious concoctions in the homes of true and honest mothers—mothers who love their children.

Those mothers will give their babies foods and medicines especially prepared for infants and children.

SELBMAN GETS 18 MONTH TERM ON GUILTY PLEA

Edward Selbmann, former chief clerk in the office of the collector of internal revenue, on trial for embezzling $15,000 of government funds, yesterday dramatically substituted a plea of guilty for his former plea of not guilty and was sentenced to eighteen months in Leavenworth prison by Federal Judge J. Foster Symes.

Selbmann, 70 years old, and prominent in German journalism and political circles, instructed his attorney, George Murdoch, to notify the court of his desire to change his plea in the hope of winning leniency.

When Selbmann was arrested last fall he attempted suicide. He blamed his stealing on stock market losses.

EXPECT VERDICT TODAY IN FRANK MCERLANE TRIAL

Defense Lawyers Close Evidence Abruptly.

CRIMINAL COURT.
John Kates, maniacal, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Frank L. Sullivan.

William Barton, murderer, sentenced to 5 years in the penitentiary by Judge
William V. Brothers.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Valparaiso, Ind., March 1.—[Special.]

Frank McErlane's defense came to a close today with a witness saying
"Yes, I remember it" and this reply from McErlane's attorneys to turn to him and say: "Frank, that means the street for you."

A few minutes later the state of Indiana had finished its presentation of evidence, making it probable, court attorneys said, that tomorrow there will be a verdict on the indictment which charges the Chicago gangster with the murder of Thad S. Fancher, Crown Point attorney.

McErlane's defense was unexpectedly shattered today. His attorneys had planned to call several other alibi witnesses, but after Mortimer L. Prindliffe of 1208 Marquette road, Chicago, who said he is credit manager for Kish's Twelfth Street store, had testified, the lawyers said that he had made such an excellent impression with the jury that no other testimony was required.

Grand Jury Foreman Testifies.

The testimony which caused the defense attorneys to assure McErlane he would go free came from John Hayhurst, a farmer from near Crown Point. Hayhurst was foreman of the grand jury that indicted McErlane and several others for the murder of Fancher.

The state called him to rebut a portion of the testimony of Miss Marvel McErlane, an eye witness, who said McErlane was not one of the murderers. Hayhurst gave the desired testimony and was then turned over to attorney Ira M. Holmes for cross-examination.

"Do you remember the testimony of John Kennedy that John O'Reilly drove the Studebaker automobile away from his place?" Holmes asked. Hayhurst replied in the affirmative and the case was finished.

Falls to Identify McErlane.

There had been a drinking bout in Kennedy's roadside a few minutes before the murder of Fancher and the drinkers had departed for the next roadhouse, where the lawyer was slain.

In his early testimony Kennedy had said there was a man named Frank McErlane in the group. But when confronted with McErlane, Kennedy said the man on trial was not the man he identified as his roadhouse drinker.

The defense failed to use Kennedy as a witness, it was said, because they believed there was a possibility the state could prove that Kennedy's place was a hangout for Chicago gunmen and thieves. They desired his testimony about O'Reilly driving the car, but they didn't want him to use McErlane's name.

And they had their way through Hayhurst, for when Special Prosecutor
Ralph N. Smith sought to follow
Holmes' memory tests with this:
"Do you remember what Kennedy said about Frank McErlane being there?" there was an objection, and Judge Harry L. Crumpacker ruled that the witness must not answer.

The defense thereby had further discredited the testimony of O'Reilly, who is now serving a life imprisonment sentence for his part in the murder of Fancher and who had testified that McErlane was another of the killers.

5 HELD HERE FOR BANK ROBBERIES IN FOUR STATES

Five men, arrested by Lieut. Edward Birmingham and a detective bureau squad and said to have been identified as robbers of banks in four states, announced last night that they would fight extradition.

In the group are Dave Earman, who has a long criminal record here; Frank Raymond, alias Doc Reed, 67, known as a confidence man; Robert Hayward, who is said to have escaped from the federal penitentiary in Atlanta in 1925; Tony Serpa, who with Raymond is charged of robbing the mails, and Artie Crawford, who has the reputation of refusing to admit to any deal that won't net him $10,000.

Among the bank robbers laid to the gang in the last 18 months are: Columbus, Wis., $125,000; Brookfield, Wis., $18,000; New Rockford, N. D., $10,000; Excelsior, Minn., $10,000; Rochester, Minn., $30,000; Dowagiac, Mich., $40,000.

WINTER GOLF COLONY IN SOUTH CAROLINA WORRIED BY BLUE LAW

Aiken, S. C., March 1.—(UPI)—Golf is a sport, and sports are mentioned in South Carolina's Sunday "blue law," a magistrate ruled here today. As a result, members of Aiken's winter colony are awaiting the outcome of the case here against four professional golfers arrested for playing last Sunday.

If the four are convicted when they face a jury next Thursday, Sheriff Nolle Robinson will take out warrants for all persons who played golf and polo on private links and fields and prosecute them vigorously, he announced.

The "progressive" party of the village, which opposes annexation, has announced candidates for village offices in an election on March 8. The annexation measure won out originally by a margin of four votes. A claim that 25 ballots were illegal is the basis for the appeal.

The golfers declared that golfing was not mentioned in the statute under which they were arrested, and the magistrate ruled that sport was mentioned, and that this included golf.

Today a bill was introduced in the state house of representatives to liberalize the Sunday law.

MT. GREENWOOD'S ANNEXATION FOES TO KEEP UP FIGHT

Mount Greenwood citizens opposed to having the village annexed to Chicago are determined to fight their case through the Illinois Supreme Court, it was stated yesterday. They already have lost in the Cook County Circuit Court and an appeal is now pending before the Appellate court.

Jury Acquits Father and Two Sons of Murder

Martin Teemer, 64, and his two sons, Martin Jr. and George, were acquitted by a jury last night in Judge John J. Sullivan's court on a charge of murdering Harry Piotrowski during an argument over the division of money from a roofing job.

The Teemers through Attorney W. W. O'Brien contended that Piotrowski had attacked them with a butcher knife and that the older Teemer fired in self-defense.

The defense declared that the golfing was not mentioned in the statute under which they were arrested, and the magistrate ruled that sport was mentioned, and that this included golf.

Today a bill was introduced in the state house of representatives to liberalize the Sunday law.

Babe Talks of Movie;
Mum on Salary.

$60,000 for Ty

PHILADELPHIA, March 1.—[Special.]—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker will be paid $60,000 and $40,000, respectively, for permitting themselves to be identified with the annual pension this year. It was revealed today in a guarded inquiry by officials of the New York Yankees. Baseball men originally had conceded Cobb $75,000 with the Athletics and Speaker $60,000 with Washington.

By EDWARD BURNS.

(Picture on back page.) Babe Ruth, eminent financier, actor, director, author and potential ball player, yesterday gave Chicago a seeming opportunity to view his 220 pound physique and make its own guess as to whether his athletic services for the next two summers are worth $30,000 to one Col. Jake Ruppert, owner of the Yanks.

The Bambino stopped over between trains en route to New York, where today he will thrust out salary ideas with his employers, and announce, possibly by tonight, whether he is to appear this season in the New York American league cast, now in rehearsal in Boston.

Mr. Ruth was not particularly garrulous while in our midst, principally, he said, because he wanted to be courted by Col. Ruppert, and also because he now thinks, talks and writes at rates never copyrighted and reproduced positively prohibited.

Babe Shies at Salary Talk.

However, in an unguarded moment, the great swatter did let it slip that the name of the moving picture he has been making in Hollywood is entitled "Babe Comes Home" and that the work soon will be released through an American distributor, to be shown at the better movie houses, with no advances in the regular advertising.

Although he was reluctant in talking about money, it was observed that Babe had been scribbling large numbers on one of his cuffs. Rapid scrutiny of these figures showed that the popular financial wizard had been going farther than baseball statisticians, who were content to compile itemized salary data on the basis of earnings Ruth hopes to play at the new rate of income.

Ruth apparently had been figuring out a price list based on his all time high and percentages, taking in the comparative lean performances of his Boston pitching career with his later accomplishments, good and not so good.

Ruth Bares Statistics.

In 12 years Babe has played 1,348 games, won 1,340 hits, of which 244 were home runs and has scored 1,127 runs, exclusive of world's series. On this basis the Bambino had played an average of 103.7 runs per season, has made an average of 115.6 hits per year, 27.35 of which were homers, with a season average of 85.7 runs.

Although Ruth has a reasonable expectancy of far exceeding these averages during the next two seasons, he gave Col. Ruppert a break by working out his estimated straight through on these statistics. While it seemed from Babe's cuff, that he had had a trouble with decimals, it was apparent from his recapitulation that this mention of 115.6 was the true average of games played and gets $103,500 per season, he will receive almost exactly $1,000 per game. On the same hypothesis, he will be paid $278 a hit. Playing home alone, they would bring $3,728.83 apiece.

All these Ruth is said to consider ridiculous low baseball bargains, particularly in view of the fact that he intends to play virtually the complete schedule of games, as compared with his figure representing his season average of 102 twice as many hits, and about 100 per cent more homers, to say nothing of his donation of all spring exhibition games.

Hassle Trainer.

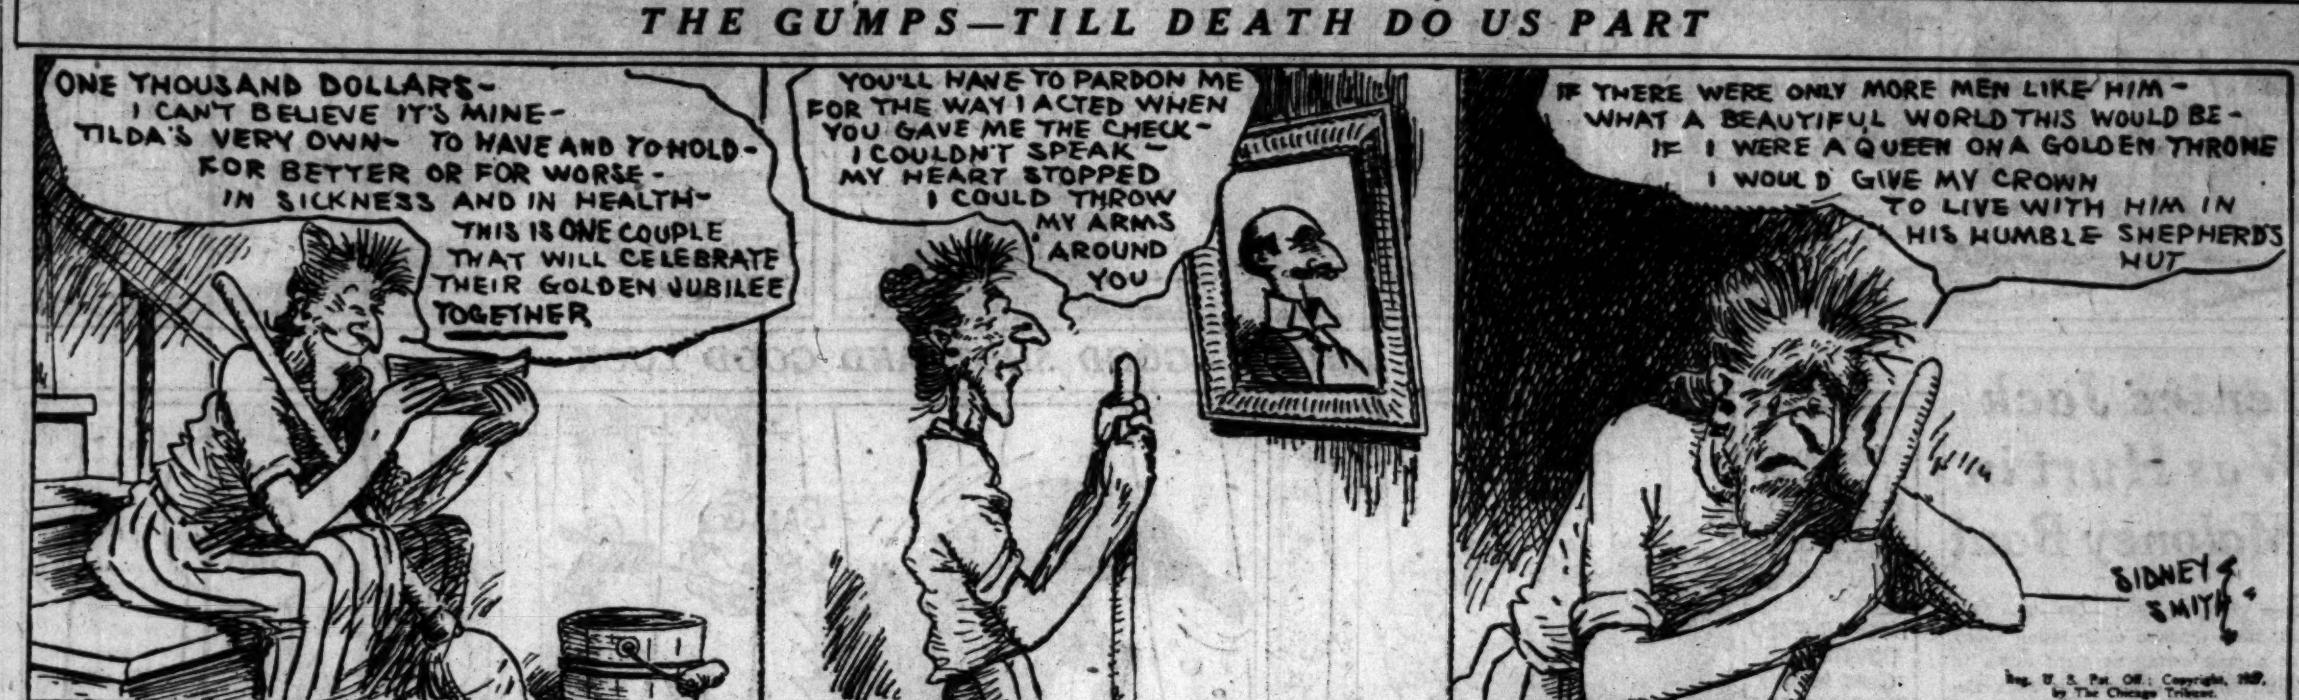

Ruth was accompanied by Artie McGovern, New York calligrapher and winter line artist, who has been watching the all-around subchess dimensions all winter. McGovern says his charge is in midseason playing form right this minute.

It must be said that the home run king appears to be in excellent shape and high mental spirits. There was nothing about him that suggested the grand old man on the brink of a career which might change the course of his entire life.

M'TIGUE FIGHT

New York, March 1.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey of Boston and Mike McTigue, New York Irishman, opponents Thursday night at Madison Square Garden in the latest outstanding heavyweight fight, will battle for a crowd that will rival the grand opening of the Delaney-Malone "house."

It isn't a sell out yet, as was the case in the third round Dundee floored Garcia with a straight right hand punch to the chin. It was the only knockdown of the fight, and Bobby

Cold and Rain Force Halt in Sox Training Activities

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

Shreveport, La., March 1.—[Special.]—A shrewish wind, blown down from the suburbs of Medicine Hat or some such therapeutic millinery, overcame the small intestine of Mr. Cracker Schalk, the new manager of the Chicago White Sox, on this, the second day of his administration, and the athletes played no ball and glove at contemplated.

The baseball team was to have gone through the prescribed motions at half past ten in the morning, and all pertinent parties were bathed and dressed, or, any way, dressed, betimes as the modern paraphrase of Mr. Pepys had it. But the wind grumbled around the galleries of the town, and its stormy store buildings rising from the piney wood clearing, and there was even a hint of sleet in the climate, so the Cracker called his hands about him and announced that all further work had been postponed until half past twelve.

Knock on the Town.

One of the local newspaper boys, an apostate big leaguer who earned his accolade, or anyway his superior ways, by six months' service on the Paris edition of the late New York Herald, has been around to complain that this mention of ill weather in Shreveport is as good as it gets on the town, but your correspondent is at loss to make other explanation of the inactivity.

Certainly one who has spent an appreciable part of his winter shoveling his time payment: "six" out of the garage in the suburbs of New York, is in no position to pass shrewish remarks at the climate of Shreveport. Your correspondent has shoveled out a few thousand tons of north temperate snow from his suburban manse adjacent to Long Island sound this winter, and he embraces Shreveport as asylum from the slings and arrows of his winter.

He has no real idea as to their respective talents, but he is generously disposed toward Harold Stricklin of Harrisburg, Ill., a first baseman, and a boy named Kennedy who claims to pitch some with his left hand.

Dundee Whips Garcia; Moore Beats Kid Jap

By WALTER ECKERSALL.

Mike Dundee of Rock Island, contender for the world's featherweight championship, gave Bobby Garcia, Mexican from Baltimore, a lacing in ten-round bout in the north hall of the Coliseum last night. Dundee won seven rounds, one went to Garcia and one to the draw.

The Rock Island Italian showed his old time punching and boxing ability. He displayed a much better left hand than in any of his appearances in Chicago, Aurora, or East Chicago. There was plenty of power behind his punches, but his right hand books and swings were high.

Garcia Knocked Down.

In the third round Dundee floored Garcia with a straight right hand punch to the chin. It was the only knockdown of the fight, and Bobby was up at the count of one. Near the end of the bout Dundee landed as many as four blows without returns.

Mike's victory was popular with the 4,000 who paid about $3,000 to see the card.

Moore Wins Lightest Bout.

In the semi-windup Pal Moore slapped and cuffed his way to victory over Kid Jap. It was a poor fight and at times looked as if the Jap pulled his punches. They boxed ten rounds and weighed 116 pounds.

Eari Mastro, local bantamweight, scored a clean-cut victory over Harry Fiore in the opening bout of four rounds. Charley Genaro stopped Frankie Hall in the fourth round of the second opener. Sandy Moir was from Jack Burke in the fourth round of the other preliminary. Burke, a west side policeman, caught for three rounds, and then his seconds tossed a towel into the ring to save the boxer from further punishment. They were heavyweights.

ROOKIE INFIL SNAPS INTO PLAY FOR McCARTHY

BY HARLAND ROHM.

Tearing off a page of the calendar for when it changes the date from the blizzard sound of "February" to the less snowy sound of "March"—in fact, "March" almost sounds synonymous with "fore." After a winter of being dry heat, billiards, chess, or whatever the players' particular winter sport may be, including the sport of sitting in an easy chair and dreaming of what he'll do to par next year, March brings around the warm days when the golfer digs out his clubs and inspects shafts loosened by a winter of dry heat and undoubtedly takes a preliminary swing or two until his wife lets him.

One of the first indications of the swing back to the fairways is the "spring training trip," an annual ten day jaunt to the gulf coast, which leaves Chicago 12:30 p.m. Thursday, March 17. While an Illinois Central railroad promotion, the trip always has been looked upon as a good place to get away from the cold fields even though in the past at least half of the tea box tourists have been from the big south side club. The first robin golfers will return to Chicago the 27th and by then it should be almost time to begin playing winter.

Frank Kern does his stuff.

Naturally it is a bit too early for gin picking potential Cobbs, Collinss, or Alexanders, but the usually sphinxical McCarthy really became talkative when he was asked about his new job. "I'm a good listener," he said. "I'm a good listener," he said. "I'm a good listener," he said.

That would seem to be a mild criticism, because baseball weather must be warm, indeed, but nevertheless there have been objections, delivered by the artful McCarthy, to his new job. He voted for high speed production of the proverbial pink, and after a second session drill he was willing to admit he had seen a few of the things that bring joy to the heart and smiles to the face of a big league manager.

Growth

1916-1926

BUSINESS MEN agree with economists that the war and immediate post war years were severe trials of the basic soundness of industrial structures.

Few, if any, products in any industry can show, during the past eleven years, as steady a growth as the circulation and advertising revenue of The Ladies' Home Journal.

The remarkably consistent growth in circulation and advertising revenue of The Ladies' Home Journal throughout these trying years is evidence of the soundness and stability that 40 years of supremacy have built into this publication.

SYNOPSIS.

Cornelia Marsh, employed in the scenario department of Hertzog's Perfection motion picture studio at Fort Lee, New Jersey, learns with sorrow that Harry Horner, the head of the department, has been fired by Lyman Hertzog, son of the owner of the studio. You know that Lyman is jealous of Harry because he is in love with Dulcie Jayne, star of the studio, but Dulcie seems to prefer her director, Daniel K. Leland. Mr. Hertzog suggests to Lyman that they feature Leland as an actor as well as a director, and this causes a quarrel between father and son. Old Mr. Hertzog suffers a stroke of apoplexy as a result and Lyman is left in charge of the studio. His first independent action is to discharge Leland, who takes his dismissal coolly, and proceeds to finish a picture he's been working on. Lyman meets Dulcie on location and tries to force him to leave her.

INSTALLMENT XXXIV.

GENIUS LIFTS HER VEIL.

When Cornelia got home on the evening of the twenty-third and found her mother lying down before dinner, even her sick pulse quickened, if only with dread. O, but it was a mere trifle! Mrs. Marsh, proud of the fairylike prettiness produced by her very white hair and her very black eyes, had still further faded "hay fever" by watching that hair, had had an accident with water unexpectedly boiling and scalded her scalp. In the first blind pain of this insignificant incident she had run out to get some witch hazel and had knocked to her knees by the handcart of that unpredictable thing, a crew's boy in a hurry; there were scrapings and bruises which could not be denied. Mrs. Marsh confessed to feeling somewhat shaken. A blessing in disguise, stirring up Cornelia! "So, after dinner, dear, will you help me practice doing up my hair on those wavers? I feel like looking my best!"

Thursday, September twenty-fourth! The day of days dawned in a shroud of fog. By seven the faint sunshine had turned this fog into a mist of pale, hawing and low hanging, suave miasms, of suspended, without the thunder's gray it nevertheless waited with hushed breath for thunder. On the west coast it would have been called "earthquake weather." But whatever weather threatened, Cornelia would have no time for coming home to dinner. She would have to wear the Canton crêpe to Hertzog's.

"If it is raining when you come home, just turn the skirt right up to your knees and pin it all the way round. Heaven knows nobody cares, nowhere, if you show your legs!" Mrs. Marsh put a handful of safety pins into Cornelia's handbag. "I'll be at the White Hart early enough to get a window table."

The mist leaned further down, drawing the world into its bosom. The world hardly breathed, waiting to be merged into the mist. The scenario department, shimmering in its dusky cage under electric lights, was but feebly thrilled even by the apparition of a beautiful, angular dark angel in his shirt sleeves, chewing gum. Benny, holding out a penciled card, said, strategically. "Guess you dropped this, Miss Marsh," grinned and retired.

The card bore a bold scrawl:

If you care to see Light of Dawn run off, come to the projection room at twelve sharp. This is not for publication.

D. K. L.

It was Cornelia's conviction that she cared not at all. But obedience comes easy to apathy and twelve being the lunch hour she was free. A quite ordinary day let her in to an unknown domain, forbidden and forbidding.

For, except that you do enter it by a door, a projection room is like nothing on earth so much as a large, comfortable, airy, airy parlour, spilt all over with the soft, warm glow of light. From Cornelia, we are aware of a tall, feminine blur near the opposite wall which nodded to her, saying in the pleasant, authoritative but unusually hushed voice of Miriam Goldman, Hertzog's head cutter. "There's a chair right beside you, Miss Marsh." Leland nodded to her from the thick darkness where close beside him peered the pale face of Dulcie Jayne. Over the back of her own head Miss Goldman ordered. "You can start her up, Charlie." The projector started his machine. On the screen Leland's last picture dawned.

The last picture of all that unfortunate series which had done so much to unhinge Leland's reputation and was dragging Dulcie into the dust! A series which had sunk them to the level of those who produce movies like wimperwursts, all alike and so many to the pound! How long did Cornelia sit there, nursing her apathy, before she began to be aware of something surprising.

What was that? What was going on, there on the screen? Had the magic machine ceased to grind and was there actually moving before Cornelia's eyes a picture, a picture, a picture?

It was not meant for a big picture or a great one, but surely it was perfect of its kind—wise and true and simple, carried on a strong tide of feeling and with lovely outdoor freshness which Benny had reproduced in lights like lyrics, in shadows like the secret trysts of lovers. The feature writers' "George," with his conspirators, deathbed repents and fatal documents, had now been entirely eradicated. Here, instead, were Henry Horner's "human touches," "human interest," "heart interest" in delicate abundance, his sufficient, simple titles, the clear, even flow, ever varied, ever single, of his continuity, running deep and full, like all still waters. Riding these waters came the glimmer of a small person which the human race had once much loved and lost awhile.

For here was fire, here was folly, the true heart of the pioneer's daughter, the light of the wild swan. Here was an ugly duckling, a Persian kitten, the patient and scintillant of many a snowdrop, a little roaring, fierce wild beast, a young girl, waiting here, again, at last, here was Dulcie Jayne! Dulcie Jayne, once more the girl who had set Cornelia and the world on fire, who had taken the world's heart and Cornelia's into her remorseless little hand and squeezed them—wasn't the blood moving in Cornelia's now?

For what is it that happens to you while you are watching a picture, a real picture, if you are fit to watch it at all? Why, the walls go down. Nature grows in you beyond their containing, as it grows on a summer night. And this summer night is alive with a running stream to which you abandon your little boat, which carries you on and on out of yourself, even out of your own particular dream into the dream of the whole wide world, the whimsical, hopeful beating of whose pulse beats now in yours. Ah, no, Cornelia had deceived herself, back then in the beginning, when she had taken those pictures for a kind and lovely muse—a muse with a warm heart, to whom she might give all her own. "Behold thou art fair, my love, behold thou art fair, my love."

Only now, by its almost painful resurrection, did Cornelia realize how cold, buried and forgotten had lain her faith in pictures. Nothing but bad pictures could have killed it—streams of them, oceans of them, floods of them, how they had poured! Not from Hertzog's alone but from company after company, from coast to coast, a second deluge!

The last fadeout faded. The lights came on. Cornelia, getting something blinding to her feet, only half heard Miss Goldman exclaiming in a tone touched with exasperated tears, "Yes, they've let me bear the blame long enough, the blamed!" Cornelia did not wonder why, or for what. Her apathy was shaken for material details: within that ice of disappointment, which had seemed forgetfulness of Dulcie, something quelled and trembled and seemed about to breathe higher, to breathe in flame—she turned instinctively with the tremulous intent of laying some humblest thank offering before the longing to receive the sign that it recognized her as it is true believers who did at least understand. Why else had she been asked to see the picture? But genius had forgotten her entirely. Violently absorbed in some arrangement with Miss Goldman the self-sufficient great murmured excitedly together.

Getting herself out of the projection room, unresentful but with her flicker of rising interest just softly snuffed out and the old fog closing in on her again, nevertheless, Cornelia found herself wondering about one thing. If Leland could still make pictures like this, even here at Hertzog's, why hadn't he made them all along? And why—ah, why—had hidden Dulcie all the time? As if he had held her in some enchanted sleep and wakened her only as he left her?

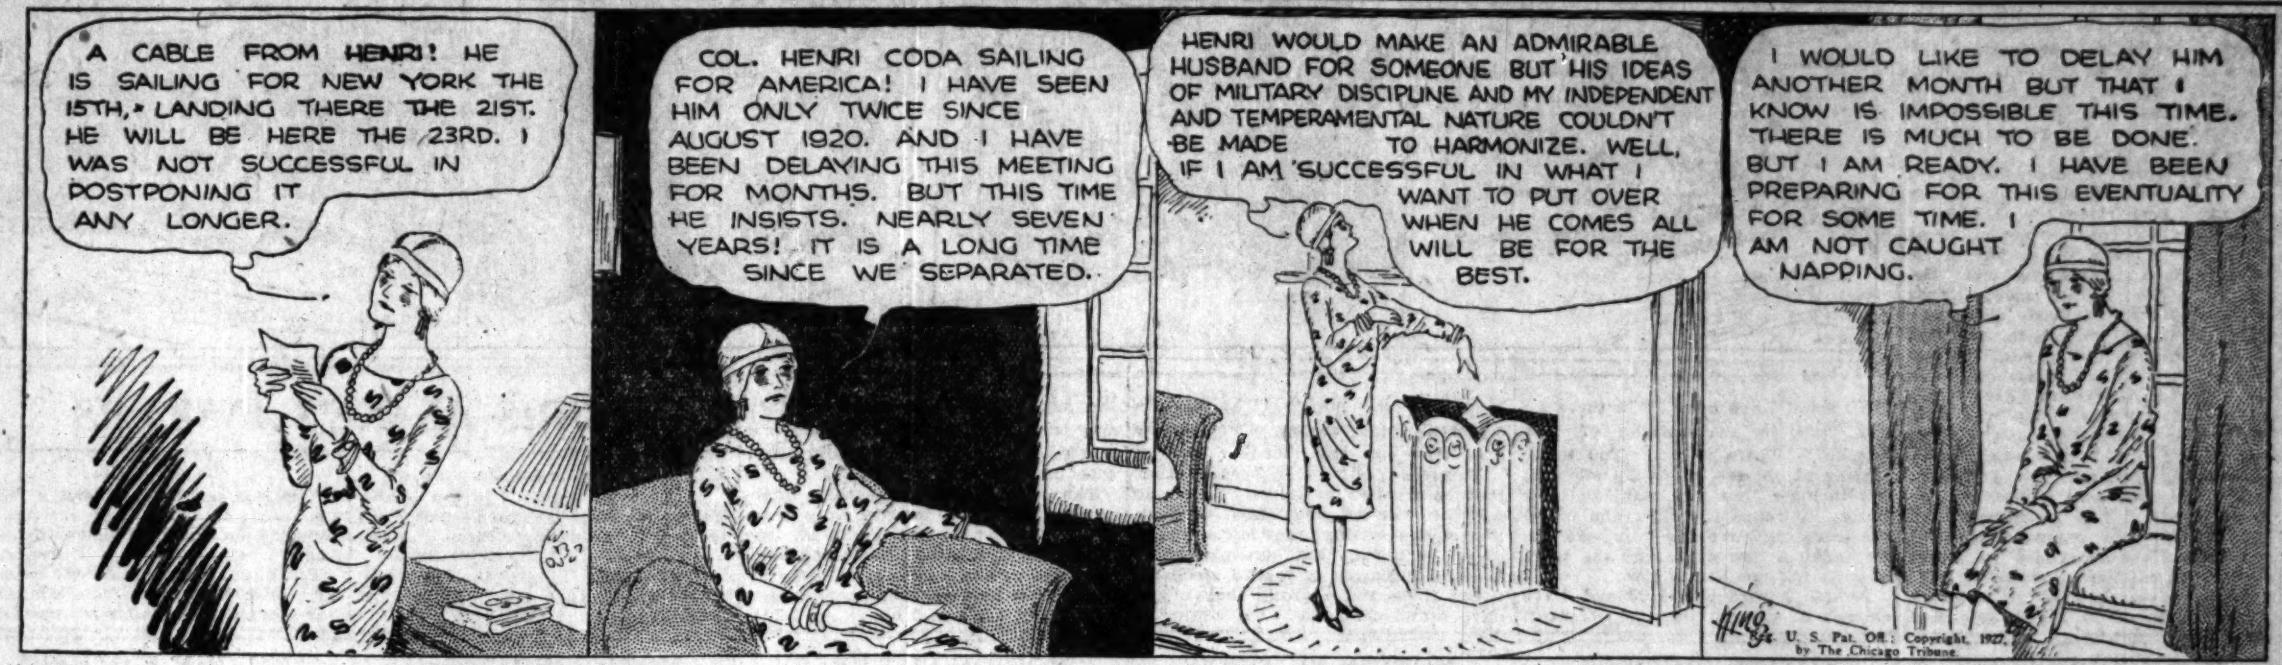

Along all the twists and turns of the halls which wove a labyrinth between her and the stairway—since a business which dealt in highly combustible materials while housing itself in an old and ramshackle building, would naturally do everything possible to make exit difficult in case of fire—Cornelia continued to baffle on this enigma. For, after all, her apathy had been shaken. If her little flame had died down again, its ashes, still warm, trembled with a breath of faint life, asking what game was being played with Dulcie's genius? And by Dulcie's love?

Good Morning!
Her father said "NO, you shall never marry a pugilist."

[You wanted to know what he said "NO" about, and now you do know.] Go and see this picture, will you? You won't be sorry.

It's from a story by H. C. Witwer and the plot, which is interesting at the start, gets better and better as it unfolds. As you watch you feel happy, sort of hungry, exceedingly healthy, and you smile, smile, smile. What more, I ask, would you like a film to do for you?

"Her Father Said 'No'" was not produced by one of the biggest or wealthiest companies. There are no famous people in the cast—though, of course, you know Mary Brian and Frankie Darro quite well. This Danny O'Shea who plays the hero is an absolute stranger to me. The director, I think, I never heard of. BUT—

To the making of this photoplay has been brought, hearts, humor, and intelligence. The result is a thoroughly delightful production.

The romance of the pugilist, Danny Martin—who, as portrayed by Danny O'Shea, is one of the finest and most lovable—and best looking—characters ever brought to the screen—and the daughter of the man who doesn't believe in boxing, as played by Matt Doe in their rôle of the father, is a picture which nodded to her, saying in the pleasant, authoritative but unusually hushed voice of Miriam Goldman, Hertzog's head cutter.

"There's a chair right beside you, Miss Marsh." Leland nodded to her from the thick darkness where close beside him peered the pale face of Dulcie Jayne. Over the back of her own head Miss Goldman ordered. "You can start her up, Charlie." The projector started his machine. On the screen Leland's last picture dawned.

This Week's Headliners in Vaudeville

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

Today ushers in Lent, universally observed in Catholic churches and widely observed in practically all others. The 40 days of fasting, commorative of Christ's forty days' fast, are relieved by the seven Sundays in Lent, which are exempt from the fast of the weekdays.

ASH WEDNESDAY services will be held in all Catholic churches. At the Cathedral of the Holy Name, State and Superior streets, the Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. J.

Fitzsimmons, V. G., rector of the cathedral, will officiate at 8 a. m. in blessing the ashes and in the evening with the imposition of the ashes. Special noontide masses will be given in St.

Patrick's, St. John's, St. Peter's, St.

Mary's, and Paulist churches, especially designed to accommodate loop work.

NOONDAY services under the auspices of the Chicago Church Club of the Episcopal Church will be held at the Garrison theater. The service lasts twenty minutes, from 12:30 to 12:50 o'clock. The speaker today will be the Rt. Rev. James Wise, bishop of Kansas.

At the Cathedral shelter, 17 North

Peoria street, the Rev. David E. Gibson, priest in charge, there will be services at 6 a. m. and from 12:10 to 12:30 p. m. After each service

there will be a procession of ashes

There Isn't Any Dead Line of Age for the Making of Friends

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"After a certain age, is it impossible to make friends? Someone said it was and I have been unable to get the idea out of my mind. You see, I'm 26 and I have been trying to get out and meet new people because I am pretty much fed up on the old ones. I do meet new people, lots of them. Some I like and I have no difficulty in making them like me. But after two or three meetings they go back to the women who had for years, leaving me to go back to mine.

"It is because I've passed the certain age? Is there an age limit in the making of new friends?" G. A. F.

Coming back from Europe on one of the nine days his wife was a month of 76, making his first American trip. Before three days he had more friends on the boat than anybody else. The men wanted to walk with him and the women were just as eager to talk to him. He played bridge. He followed the shuffleboard and deck tennis scores and knew each day who won. He had the most engaging way of submerging himself completely in his interest in you and what you were doing. He had only a few days in New York and had he accepted all the engagements extended him by the business men because, lunch, dinner and breakfast he wouldn't have had time to see the Woolworth tower. He was one of the best examples of the correct answer to: "Is there an age limit in the making of new friends?" There is not. You make friends at 16 and at 60 by showing convincingly that you want to be a friend. Perhaps the older one grows the more initiative one must exercise to attract new friends. The more of one's self one has to give.

At 26, however, one should have the meetings with new friends they may have given so little of themselves that their company could be dismissed without regrets.

The older one gets the wider interests one must have in order to be interesting to others. But, above all, the great trick of making friends and holding them at any age is to be more interested in making them happy than in making one's self happy.

Howard Linns
to Retain Abode
in Cedar Street

BY NANCY R.

It was rather surprising to learn during the winter, that the Howard Linns were planning to give up their attractive house at 55 Cedar street and seek an apartment in a quieter neighborhood. "Fifty-Five" has been their own dwelling place for so long that their friends heard the news with regret.

Now, however, I understand that they have changed their minds, and won't be moving after all. Perhaps the search for an apartment proved too trying; perhaps their sentiment for the house was too strong, whatever the reason, they expect to stay it each winter, just as usual, and leave it each summer for a few months when they migrate out to the French country house near Geneva.

The Linns are taking a belated winter holiday this month, leaving Chicago tomorrow and heading for Cuba and Nassau, where the sun is bright and warm, life is leisurely and gay, and there's no such animal as a profligate.

While on the subject of menages, old and new, I'm reminded that the Clark Strohels have taken an apartment at 23 Bellevue place, in the same building to which the John Paul Strohels moved last autumn. Mrs. Strohels has been besieged with inquiries about her cousin, Mrs. Stanislaus Spukalski (Helen Walker) ever since the news of the latter's illness reached this country. Cables from Paris have given the information that Mrs. Spukalski is getting better slowly, but she is not out of danger even yet.

Day's News in Society

Mrs. Edward Hines of 1456 Ridge avenue, Evanston, will be hostess at a sale for the Vocational Society for Sunday tomorrow from 10 to 5 o'clock. Amongst Mrs. Hines will be Mrs. Charles H. Dennis, Mrs. James G. Connor, Mrs. Bruce Scott, Mrs. Eric Scudder, Mrs. E. W. Ratcliffe, Mrs. A. B. Marx, and Mrs. James C. Jameson. An extensive stock of hooked rugs, quilts and embroidered pillows, linens, bath towels and Easter decorations are to be on display.

The National Park Seminary Alumnae Association is to meet this afternoon at the National Park Seminary day nursery at 1261 North Lincoln street.

Mrs. Keene H. Addington and her mother, Mrs. La Victoire, are departing today for Camden, S. C., where Mrs. Addington has leased a house for the summer. The Samuel Slades of 232 East Walton place are to return from the south for Miss Florence Addington's marriage last Saturday to Otto Hubbard, to join Mrs. Addington the last of this week.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Montgomery of Evanston have sailed for a trip through the West Indies. On their return, Mrs. Montgomery is to stop in Miami to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Deacon.

Miss Pauline Wilder of Lake Forest and her son are to depart on Saturday from Castle Hot Springs, Ariz., where they have been for the last several weeks, for the Ojai valley in California. When they return in early April Mr. Wilder will go with them for a sojourn at White Sulphur Springs.

Mr. Howard Peabody of Lake Forest, who took her young son to Arizona, so that he might recover from a severe case of pneumonia, has returned.

The Orville E. Thompsons of 227 East Delaware place, who have been at Palm Beach for the last several weeks, are planning to be back in town by the 15th of the month.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Ferguson Jr. of 10 West Schiller street, are receiving congratulations upon the birth of a son, on Feb. 21 at St. Luke's hospital. Mrs. Ferguson was Miss Virginia Cooke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Cooke of 1415 Astor street, before her marriage last winter. The boy is to be named Louis A. Ferguson III.

Mrs. Frederic Upham of 946 Lakeshore drive has departed with her sister to motor to California.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Chapin of the Lake Shore Drive hotel, and Mr. and Mrs. William Wrigley of 1200 Lake Shore drive, are to sail on March 19 for a three months' trip abroad.

Mrs. Arthur John Unwin, the former Mrs. Ernest Walker, has returned from her honeymoon and is in her apartment at 6 Scott street. Mr. Unwin, to whom she was married on New Year's day in Greenwich, Conn., has sailed for a brief trip to England his return coming to Chicago to make his residence.

Chikagians who were guests at a luncheon given in Palm Beach by Mrs. Frank M. Strohreuter and her daughter, Mrs. Maxine Culver, last week included Mrs. Alexander Revelle, Mrs. Frank O. Butler, and Miss Daisy Smith.

Tribune Cook Book

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Cured Fish.

The yearly recurrence of Ash Wednesday must surely inspire any Father Time dietician to do a little reminiscing.

There are really but two lines of food history that have any continuity, and one of them owes all that it is to Lenten and church eating laws and customs. It is needless to say that the other is due to the observance of the Mosaic law.

The diets of saints have often been fantastic, but so have those of sinners, and the balance of good has generally been with the saint, although he or she may have brought on premature age and an early death and got a predisposition to terrible forms of disease because of being malnourished.

The former dependence of people on cured fish and on fresh fish, as well, seems unreal to us today, though millions of Englishmen even to this day probably have kippers or bloaters for breakfast and food science commands salt cod.

Centralized Charity Financing Proposed by Chicago Agencies

Preliminary plans for establishing in Chicago an experiment in the centralized distribution of finances for charitable and social service agencies, sponsored by the Central Council of Social Agencies, was announced yesterday by Bernard C. Roloff, superintendent of the Illinois Social Hygiene league and chairman of the financial under committee of the Council of Social.

Under the proposed plan, four or five of the larger charitable organizations of the city will combine their financial activities, operating from one office, eliminating the need for competition and working toward a unified community program for raising and dividing funds, Mr. Roloff said.

Advantages of the scheme, as outlined by Mr. Roloff before members of the National Association of Community Chests at the Hotel La Salle, will be the economy in soliciting funds, the increase in the number of contributors (as proved by cities who have adopted this plan) and the convenience to the busy businessman who, while not receiving appeals from many sources, will be engaged by the central organization alone. In time this office would have full power in making distribution of funds according to the financial needs and service value of the member agencies.

All Creeds on So. Shore Dine as Good Neighbors

Five hundred South Shore neighbors partook of a good fellowship dinner last night in the Bryn Mawr church, under the auspices of all the church, civic and educational groups in the district. Catholic and Protestant, Jew and gentile, for three hours broke bread, sang songs, and listened to representative speakers whose united topic was the neighborliness of Americans.

Prof. Edward Merrill of the University of Chicago, voted for his work in making students of diverse races feel at home in their university surroundings, pleaded for a neighborly spirit among various nationalities and creeds.

District Attorney George E. Q. Johnson discussed the contribution of the professional man to the community. Rabbi G. George traced the story of religious tolerance in this country since the days when his race was persecuted in New York state.

The purpose of the community movement, as outlined by Alex S. Irvine, was presided, is to produce a more effective community spirit.

Holes in This Dress.

My most embarrassing moment occurred when I was shopping. I bought a new dress. When I came home I tried it on.

To my amazement I found four holes in it at the waist, as without hesitating a moment I went back to the store and told the clerk that the dress was full of holes.

"Well," he said, "there's a ribbon running through them holes, which makes the look nice."

Without waiting for him to say anything else, I grabbed my dress and ran home, while all the people laughed at me.

Music Mixed with 'The Bard' on Elmer's Dial

Variety in Programs for Evening's Radio.

By ELMER DOUGLASS.

Bits about radio's whats, wheres, whens, and hows for last evening.

E. A. Knowles, WBCN, 7 to 7:40, reading from the book the last half of Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" and making comments thereon. And assuming that if Shakespeare were more generally read and absorbed we would have the sentiment and the wisdom to play each our part the better, and thus make this a better world.

The consolidation of WQJ with WMAQ was the news item yesterday, although so far as last evening was concerned this had more to do with the slight change in program announcements rather than with the programs, except for the 10 to 11 hour, when programs from New York were transmitted through WQJ.

It happened that the writer turned to WQJ at 7:45, finding Announcer Geiss propounding a series of puns.

I heard within the next few minutes from another local station the word pianist pronounced "pi-onist," and from a New York station the word Mozart with the German pronunciation "Mo-zart," and from still another New York station in a sing-song announcer trying to do the work better than the regular announcer and failing lamentably.

Admiration again for the remarkably fine grand opera's vocal solos program, WJZ-KFW, 8 to 9. Admiration again also for that melodramatic Don Amato, especially with his fidelity and immensely pleasing orchestra background.

Although interested I was not sold on Lawrence Vining's voice, WMAQ, 9 to 9:45. He jumped rather and observation will make his talk of more than usual interest. The broadcast of the address will begin at 1 o'clock.

Tonight at 8:45 comes the Arabian Nights entertainment, an hour and a quarter of oriental witchery. The boy Aladdin will rub his lamp and scenes after scene will appear for listeners. Wales, Ireland and Spain, as well as various parts of our own country, will be visited. A specially selected orchestra, under direction of Henry Selinger, will provide the music. During the short intermissions in the instrumental numbers Mark Love, will offer solos in keeping with the spirit of the entertainment.

During the W-G-N Woman's club period this afternoon at 3, Dr. Bayard Holmes, representing the American Society for the Control of Cancer, will be the speaker. Daily garden bulletins are now being broadcast during this period. The musical program to day will be given by Erma Gottschalk and Maude Corken.

The Good Health and Training period will be broadcast this morning at 10. Dr. Rufin Abbott will talk on "Tuberculosis—Its Cause and Cure."

The show by Paul Ash and his gang will be broadcast direct from the studio of the W-G-N. The Paul is making merry this week with what is called the "happiest, hottest, jolliest stage show ever produced." Among the stars are Eddie Hill, Lang & Voelk, Vail & Stewart, the Darling Twins, the Oriental Flirts, Paul Small, William Myer, and Al Kvale.

DETAILS OF TODAY'S W-G-N PROGRAM (Wave length, 300 meters):

PUBLIC SERVICE PERIOD, 9 to 10 a.m.—"The Story of today's news; discussion of events."

10 to 10:15 a.m.—Good health and training period.

COP OPENS FIRE ON 3 ROBBERS; 1 SEIZED; 1 SHOT

Three wagon thieves attempted to hold up a Marshall Field truck at Kostner avenue and Lake street yesterday, when Policeman W. J. Hartford of the Fillmore street station, who was guarding the truck, opened fire on them. He captured one and wounded another.

Charles Koch, 4734 Austin avenue, driver of the truck, and Hartford were stopped by a traffic light at Kostner avenue and Lake street, when three bandits stepped from an automobile to the truck seat and commanded Koch to drive into an alley. As they entered the alley Hartford started shooting. The captured bandit gave his name as Luke Delige, 21 old, 1237 West Taylor street.

About an hour later a man entered Mother Cabrini hospital with a bullet wound in his abdomen.

How to Treat the Excessively Dry and Oily Scalps

by Corinne Lowe

The objectionable type of dandruff is found more often in oily hair than in those with dry hair. However, the dry type of dandruff is just as dangerous to scalp and hair as the oily, and is seen in those with the kind of skin that chaps easily. The hair is usually fine and dry as straw.

The chief difference in the treatment of dry and oily dandruff is that in the latter instance the hair can be washed twice a week with soap, whereas the dry hair had better undergo the washing to once a month. Also, the kind of soaps vary with the dry and oily conditions of the scalp. The strong structure of green soap is not recommended for the dry hair, a soap-lathered soap should be used by the latter.

The hair is very dry and lusterless. It is wise to consult a physician, for this is often a symptom of sinus or thyroid gland behavior.

It is reported by authoritative skin specialists that sufferers from the dry type of dandruff become bald much more rapidly than those with the oily scalp.

The diet is a point of importance to those with excessively oily scalps. Oily and greasy foods should be avoided and a plentiful amount of alkaline foods incorporated in the diet. Acid fruits, such as lemons, oranges and grapefruits, are strongly alkaline.

Three times a week for shampooing is not considered too frequent for that oily, hyperactive scalp condition that provokes the objectionable greasy scalp dandruff. In fact, one eminent hair specialist recommends nightly washing for the first week of treatment, and shampoo twice a week the second and third weeks.

The pure structure of green soap is found unpleasant by some because it is substituted for the oil-solvent itching soap and dandruff treatment.

A semi-sensitive tincture of green oil soap shampoo. The semi-sensitive tincture requires only 15 per cent of grain alcohol in green oil soap shampoo and may be applied to the scalp and massaged in with finger tips and then rinsed out with one rinsing water. It should leave the hair feeling silky and just right.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

MARION B. MILDE CASES of dandruff may be cured by bathing the hair and scalp in a bath containing a scrubbing with a complexion brush. Rinse with warm, then cold water. In more exaggerated cases steaming the face is advised. Just how this is done is shown in my pamphlet on "Care of the Skin" and I ask you to send a stamped addressed envelope for it.
